CONFEREES AGAIN TAKE UP BORDER CONTROL PLAN

Gen. Bliss Expected to Appear Before American-Mexican Commission.

MINE TAX DISCUSSED

Operators Present Schedule on Which They Will Resume Work.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 4.—Further consideration by the American-Mexican joint commission was given today to a plan of border control proposed by the Mexican members. It was regarded as probable that Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, assistant chief of staff of the United States Army, would appear before the American commission in an advisory capacity.

That the plan which involves the withdrawal of Gen. Pershing's forces would be adopted prior to a definite understanding regarding Gen. Carranza's attitude respecting the reopening of mines and other industries was regarded as improbable.

What they regard as an equitable schedule of taxes was submitted to the Mexican members of the American-Mexican joint commission on yesterday by the committee representing American mining interests.

For two hours they were in conference with Luis Cabrera, head of the Mexican commission and Minister of Finance of his country, and Alberto Pani, another member who is Director General of the National Railways.

No assurances were given the mining men that their schedule would be adopted, but it was understood that it would be submitted to the Carranza Government. The question of transportation was discussed and the protest was reiterated against what the mining men consider confiscatory tax decrees.

The American members of the commission also conferred again with the mining men's representatives. After their conference the American commission issued a statement in which it was said that if satisfactory agreements can be reached with reference to the matters, especially the resumption of mining activities, improved conditions in Mexico can be confidently expected.

Such resumption would be distinctly beneficial in furnishing employment to Mexican labor, it was said, and also would be a source of immediate revenue to the Mexican Government. The necessary prerequisite to such a plan would be the return to Mexico of American mining operators who have withdrawn during the recent disturbances. The Government of the United States cannot encourage such return, it was pointed out, until satisfactory assurances are given with reference to the safety of life and property in the district in which operations are to be resumed.

Carranza's Chief of Staff Coming to U. S. With Arrendo.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 4.—Col. Juan Barragan, chief of staff of Gen. Carranza, will accompany Eliseo Arrendo, Ambassador designate to the United States, on the latter's return to Washington. According to Government officials, Col. Barragan merely intends to take a vacation.

"Mexican Anarchy" Condemned by Article in Paris Temps.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—The Temps devotes a leader to what it terms "Mexican anarchy," placing in danger French investments of $600,000,000 by the arbitrary acts of the Carranza Government, especially by the decree of Sept. 5, under which it is alleged properties were confiscated.

"The French," says the Temps, "regarded Gen. Carranza, when he took the leadership against the dictators, Huerta, and with sympathy. France renounced, as did other European states, her own policy toward Mexico to follow that of Washington and adopted President Wilson's formula of Mexico for the Mexicans."

The Temps says events justify serious fears for the future, and alludes to the "fulfillment" of the Atlantic City conference.

"France," says the Temps, "still refuses to admit that its demands will remain without result, but if that should be the case, she will take such action as the situation requires, nor forget this disappointment."

ONE PRIEST KILLED—TWO HURT

Leg of Bishop Broken in Auto Accident in Illinois.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 4.—Father Edward J. Schuetz, chancellor of the Catholic diocese of Peoria, attached to St. Mary's Cathedral, was killed; the right shoulder of the Rt. Rev. Edmund M. Dunne, Bishop of the Diocese of Peoria, was dislocated and the ankle of Father James V. Shanon, rector of St. Mary's Cathedral, was badly sprained in an automobile accident near Princeton, Ill., 10 miles north of here, this morning.

The automobile in which the priests were going to a confirmation ceremony at Princeton, Ill., was driven over in a ditch one and one-half miles east of Princeton. Father Schuetz was pinned under the car and his neck was broken. Father Shannon was brought to a hospital here, while Bishop Dunne, despite his injury, went on to Princeton.

SAWDUST YIELDS TAR, LIME, A LIGHT OIL AND CHARCOAL

Scientist Discovers Method for Distilling Mill Waste and Making Products Marketable Immediately.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 4.—Experiments at the University of Washington by Lloyd D. Davis of the Department of Industrial Chemistry, and Dr. W. D. Davidson of the University of British Columbia, have resulted in the discovery of a process of distilling saw mill waste by means of which tar, a light oil, acetate of lime and charcoal are obtained and marketable at once.

The tar, 40 gallons for each cord of wood distilled, is of medium consistency. The light oil is immediately marketable for use in refineries and the yield is 12 gallons to the cord. Eighty pounds of acetate of lime is obtained from each cord of wood and 80 pounds of charcoal.

REDUCTION OF THE AMOUNT OF ALCOHOL IN BEER ADVOCATED

Master Brewers Also Hear Suggestion That Sale of Spirituous Liquors Should Be Prohibited.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 4.—A reduction in the amount of alcohol in beer was advocated by speakers at the twentieth annual convention of the Master Brewers' Association, which ended here yesterday.

Hugh N. Fox, secretary of the United States Brewers' Association, said the solution of the whole liquor problem would be prohibition of the sale of spirituous liquors and license for the sale of beers and light wines low in alcohol.

These officers were elected: President, William F. Carthaus of St. Louis; first vice president, Cornelius Sippel of Chicago; recording secretary, C. A. Nowak of St. Louis; financial secretary, Marcus C. Macgregor, Chicago; treasurer, Louis Sues, Chicago. Next year's convention will be held in St. Louis.

GERMAN EMPRESS GIVES GOLD TO THE FATHERLAND

Donates Articles From Imperial Treasury and From Own and Kaiser's Personal Collection.

BY KARL H. VON WIEGAND.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York Times.

(Copyright 1916, by Press Pub. Co.)

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—The Empress Augusta Victoria has ordered that all the replaceable or disposable articles of gold in the imperial court treasury, not of particular historical or art value, be donated for the purpose of increasing the gold supply of the Fatherland.

The Empress, it is said, has also given to her country many very valuable articles of gold and plate belonging to herself and the Kaiser. Many members of the court are following her example in giving gold and such dishes and jewelry to the collecting societies.

It is expected that collectors will buy the articles of gold and silver coming from the households of the imperial palaces at more than their intrinsic value, because of their historic connection.

BRITISH RED CROSS SHIP BLOWS UP NEAR DOVER

PARIS, Oct. 4.—A British Red Cross steamer blew up on Sunday morning in the Straits of Dover, according to a Boulogne dispatch to the Figaro.

The dispatch says news of the disaster was received by wireless, but that details are lacking.

There is no satisfactory way of estimating the numerical size of a shifting crowd which extends as this one did, from Fourth street to Grand avenue and half-way back. But if there had been many more persons in the jam along Grand avenue, the crowd might have become wedged in so tightly that it would be there yet. The downtown throng, particularly on Twelfth street, was also of unusual size.

Crowd Hard to Estimate.

There is no satisfactory way of estimating the numerical size of a shifting crowd which extends as this one did, from Fourth street to Grand avenue and half-way back. But if there had been many more persons in the jam along Grand avenue, the crowd might have become wedged in so tightly that it would be there yet. The downtown throng, particularly on Twelfth street, was also of unusual size.

There were no long waits, except for the seats on the parade, for the parade made its schedule time all the way, and sliced a few minutes from its timetable in reaching some points.

Gov. Major Goes Out to Boss 200 CONVICTS ON ROAD WORK

Rides With Warden McClung in Auto and Joyrides Throughfare Will Be Repaired.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 4.—In observance of the "Good Roads day," Gov. Major this morning took charge of 200 convicts and went to their work on roads surrounding Jefferson City today and tomorrow. Most of the work will be on the "12-mile drive," the most popular route of joyriders out of the city. Three motor trucks and a big team of wagons will be used in hauling gravel to spread on the road.

Draws "House" Six Miles Long, Packed Dozens Deep, Filling Windows and Stands.

"Did George Cohan Ever Pack 'Em Like This?' Asks William of Lady McBeth.

Mr. Shakespeare came to town last evening with what was perhaps the biggest company of players he ever had anywhere, and he drew a "house" that was six miles long, packed a dozen or more deep on each side of the street, and filling windows and grand stands all the way.

It was the thirty-ninth annual Veiled Prophet parade, and "The Plays of Shakespeare" was the theme, as announced on the standard ahead of float number two, right behind the Prophet's own. Twenty other floats, each representing one of the plays, followed.

Will of Avon himself was standing on the second float, and he was heard to remark to Lady Macbeth, who posed gracefully near him, "Some crowd! And they ask you 'em up like this?'"

When the next float, "The Two Gentlemen of Verona," came along, a new style of Shakespearean acting was revealed. There was the correct form "set," and there were the two gentlemen, who were dressed in modern clothes, and who were acting in a modern way.

ST. LOUISAN FIGHTING IN FRANCE WINS WAR CROSS

Award Made to Youth at Parade of Famous Regiment of Which He Is a Member.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY ON THE SOMME FRONT, Oct. 4.—A private from St. Louis, Mo., a youth who has been serving only nine months in the Foreign Legion, of which five months have been passed, at the front, was selected for the decoration of the War Cross, which was awarded to him at a parade of the entire famous regiment after the battle of Belloy-En-Santerre, south of the Somme River.

The Foreign Legion forms part of the division which is composed of troops from Morocco, and which, during many months, has been transferred from one point on the front line to another, wherever the fighting was the hottest. There is only one complaint among the men of the legion. This is that they are occasionally sent to a quiet portion of the line for "rest."

STREET CAR CONDUCTOR WHO HIT POLICEMAN IS FREED

Judge Holds Patrolman in Plain Clothes Should Have Shoved Star When Quarrel Started.

When a conductor gets saucy with a policeman in plain clothes on his street car is the policeman's duty to show him star, so that the conductor will know he is talking to a policeman and regulate his conversation accordingly, according to the view propounded by Judge Sanders in Police Court today in the case of Roy D. Greene of 3733A Maffitt avenue, a Cass line conductor, who was freed of a charge of disturbing the peace of Policeman Joseph Schalkner.

Schalkner testified that Greene "assaulted" him because he proffered a $10 bill in payment of his fare and made a face at him when he got off. Schalkner said he did not shove Greene, but called him a liar and hit him on the nose. Greene denied making a face or using insulting language. But he admitted hitting Schalkner only after Schalkner had called him a liar.

LEADERS OF G. O. P. SEE ROOSEVELT AND TAFT SHAKE HANDS

Meet at New York Union League Club, and Each Says, "How D' You Do?"

BOTH MAKE ADDRESSES

Ex-Presidents Combine With Nominee in Assault on Administration Policy.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft met at 8:45 last night at the Union League Club. They shook hands just as any two gentlemen might do who had just met each other for the first time, and a little later, they shook hands with about 1200 men who attended the reception for Charles E. Hughes, which was the occasion for the meeting.

They stood in line together, not four feet apart, on the same Oriental rug, in the same alcove of the library of the club. Behind each was a green light, but that was merely a coincidence. From the time they shook hands until they marched away to the dining hall, where both afterward made speeches, all that separated them was Chancey M. Depew, at one time widely known as "The Poach."

Met Again in the Elevator.

Later in the evening Col. Roosevelt and Taft met again in the elevator with Chancey M. Depew and George R. Sheldon. Col. Roosevelt, it was reported, inquired after the health of Mrs. Taft. They did not meet again during the evening.

"We shook hands," Taft said afterward, "just like any gentlemen would shake hands."

Taft arrived at the club first. He was cheered loudly. George T. Wilson and other escorted the ex-President to the guarded elevator and up to the library.

Next in order came T. R. A mighty shout greeted him, and he doffed the black slouch hat he wears with evening clothes and bowed as he shook hands with the crowd.

The Colonel went into the library and started around the room. He shook hands generously with everyone he met. Either George R. Sheldon or Gov. Whitman took the Colonel by the arm and led the Colonel to Taft.

Taft put his hand out first. The Colonel grasped the outstretched hand and each said: "How d' you do?"

Chancey M. Depew, smiling as usual, put himself in a position between the two men.

A reception was held, leading Republicans marching for 70 minutes past Root, Hughes, Roosevelt, Depew, Taft, Gen. Porter, Gov. Whitman, Senator A. B. Fall, Gov. Beekman of Rhode Island, W. Wilcox, Calder, Senator John W. Weeks, George von L. Meyer, Robert Bacon and William Cameron Forbes. Among those with whom Roosevelt shook hands were Senator Penrose and ex-Gov. Odell.

The administration was vigorously assailed

ers and four Belgian lighters, whose sinking has already been reported. Twenty-seven of the 35 were fishing steamers. Thirty-one prisoners were brought in by the submarines.

British Troops Push Forward in Macedonia.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—British troops yesterday morning pushed forward from their new positions near Karajak, on the west bank of the Struma River, in Greek Macedonia, and captured a part of the village of Yenikou, says an official statement issued by the British War Office today. The Bulgarians launched three counter attacks and fighting for the newly won position still is in progress.

Bitter Fighting Continues on Gallipoli Front.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 4.—Russian and Teutonic troops continue to fight stubborn battles in the region west of Buhov, near Chelovo and Korynia, in Galicia, the War Office announced today. During battles in the region of Dorna Watra (Rumanian frontier) the brigade commander, Gen. Khoronov, who participated in the campaigns of 1917 and 1918, was seriously wounded.

Russian Assaults Repulsed, Berlin Reports.

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—The Russians continued yesterday their heavy assaults on the Austro-Hungarian front, but official announcements reports the defeat of the Russians by the troops of Prince Leopold.

German and Bulgarian Forces Retreat in Macedonia.

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—German and Bulgarian forces on the western end of the Macedonian front, where heavy fighting with the Serbians has been in progress for several weeks, have again fallen back. Today's official statement reports the withdrawal of troops near Frash Lake to prepared positions.

MAN IN 'CASE 11' IN WORKHOUSE

Walter Wascowitz, fined on New Charge in Police Court.

Walter Wascowitz, of 1328 North Eighth street, charged with disturbing the peace, was in the police court today. He was fined $5 by Judge Sanders for disturbing the peace of Ignatz Stolarik of 1400 North Ninth street. The record shows that on the police court fine he was sent to the workhouse.

The name on the charge was spelled Waskiewicz, but the desk sergeant at the Carr Street Station says Waskiewicz is the Wascowitz whose sentence was stayed by Neu. On the clerk's desk afterward was found a card of Beverly Brown, saloon keeper and politician, requesting "Friend Judge" to please take care of case No. 11.

REJECTS HUSBAND FOR PARENTS

Bride Testifies She Believes She Is Too Young to Wed.

Miss Van Hamen, 17 years of age, rejected her parents in preference to her husband yesterday afternoon in Judge Vandewater's division of the East St. Louis City Court and John Van Hamen's suit to get possession of his bride was dismissed.

HUGHES IN MISSOURI OCT. 13

Charles E. Hughes will pass through St. Louis early on the morning of Oct. 13, on his way to Springfield and Joplin, to fill speaking engagements. Hughes will speak at Springfield in the afternoon and at Joplin at night. National Committeeman Jacob L. Babler tried to arrange Hughes' itinerary in Missouri so that he could speak at Cape Girardeau early in the morning and also fill the Springfield and Joplin engagements, but found it impossible.

Hughes will travel on a special train. He will be joined at St. Louis by Babler and State Chairman Hukriede. His train is scheduled to arrive in St. Louis at 7 a. m. and will depart immediately for Springfield, where he will speak at 1:30 p. m.

Bridge Falls With Cars.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 4.—The death list in last night's accident, in which two street cars dropped 30 feet from the West Third street viaduct to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks, remains at two, but of the 40 injured it is expected one or two will die.

WAR PLANES FLY TO FRANCE FROM ENGLAND DAILY

New Machines Go to Front to Replace Those on Somme—Channel Crossed in Eight Minutes.

By FREDERICK PALMER.

The Only American Correspondent at British Headquarters in France.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Oct. 4.—Never were such numbers of planes employed and never did they play such an important part as in the battle of the Somme. The wastage of British planes at the front has been supplied by new planes flown across the channel from England, where after coming from the factory, they are tested out at a home aerodrome.

The record time in crossing the channel at its narrowest point, where the distance is 21 miles, is eight minutes. When the Associated Press correspondent, who was in London for a day's leave from the front, asked a certain General at the War Office for permission to fly back instead of going by steamer, train and automobile, the answer was:

"Perfectly easy," and to prove it he called up the commander of the flying corps and in five minutes all was arranged over the telephone.

"Ready for Big Show,"

"What about the baggage?" asked the correspondent. "Oh, take it along and strap it on," replied the General. "A plane that carries 150 pounds of bombs will not be bothered with a dress suit case."

A dozen machines, one after another, were due to go to France that day, as soon as the wire said a storm on the other side of the channel had passed. The correspondent slipped into a wadded jacket for protection against the wind, which would also act as a life buoy if he happened to fall into the channel, and took his place, a position usually occupied by the observer, who also mans a machine gun.

"She's a good and steady bus," said the pilot.

"They flew her down from the factory three days ago and she's tuned up and ready for her part in the big show on the other side. You must not expect any fancy stunts or shells. Mr. business is to fly her to France and deliver her in good condition, ready for work."

She was immaculate in her fresh varnish and reassuring in her staunchness. This pilot had made 30 such crossings and was proud of the fact that he had never come down at any of the way stations. Before the war he had been ranching in South Africa and was one of the thousands of men who knew nothing about flying, but have become expert aviators.

It was as light as a line drawn on a map, following a plotted course of

MAJOR WILL NOT PERMIT PRISON INQUIRY BY WOMEN

Says Committee of Susan B. Anthony Club of Kansas City Will Be Treated as Visitors.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 4.—Gov. Major today said that the committee appointed by the Susan B. Anthony Club of Kansas City to investigate conditions in the State penitentiary would not be allowed to conduct the investigation.

"The members of the committee will be treated exactly the same as other visitors," said the Governor. "The committee is not an official body in any sense of the word. The women will be accorded the same courtesy and treatment as any casual visitor."

TWO EMPLOYEES HELD FOR THEFT

Men Accused Had Promised to Aid in Trapping Stock Thieves.

Two men found by detectives at Seventeenth street and Lucas avenue at 5 o'clock last night with cravettes under their coats were taken by detectives to the place where they were arrested, Butler Bros., at Eighteenth and Olive streets. Joseph R. Johnson, manager of the firm, said the day before he had promised raises in salary to the men if they would help trap the thieves who were stealing articles from the store.

FRANCE CALLS ON 1918 CLASS

Military Instruction of Class of 1917 About Completed.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—A memorandum attached to a bill introduced in the Chamber of Deputies by the minister of War, Gen. Rouget, authorizing the enrolling of the young men of the class of 1918 preparatory to their being called to the colors, explains that the military instruction of the class of 1917 is about completed.

The youths of the class of 1917 were enrolled upon their reaching the age of 18. When the members of the class of 1918 are enrolled they will be six months older than the preceding class and will not be actually incorporated into the army until later, when Parliament passes a special law.

1000-YARD TUNNEL TAKEN BY FRENCH FORCE IN CHILLY

Germans in Shaft Refuse to Surrender Until Threatened With Shelling.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY ON THE SOMME FRONT, Oct. 4.—How the village of Chilly was taken from the Germans in one brilliant dash by French regiments was related today by participants in the action to the correspondent of the Associated Press when he visited that position, which is one of the most important on the entire allied line.

The artillery preparation lasted two days. Everything in the village of Maucourt was razed. Scarcely even the foundation of a wall remained standing in Chilly, where the Germans had massed their strength underground. Entanglement after entanglement of barbed wire was cut out by the shells.

Then the French, who had assembled in the most advanced dugout, dashed out. The first wave reached and cleared the German front line, in which the Germans had retaken their places after the first French dash.

Meanwhile, from somewhere underground, came a large body of Germans. The French bayoneted some of the Germans, the rest of whom disappeared into a tunnel. Calls to surrender availed nothing and it was impossible to follow. Then the French built a sandbag redoubt around the tunnel and waited.

The first French wave went on and took the second and third German lines within Chilly itself. Then, from another end of the tunnel, German troops emerged. Their exit was brought to an end by a French detachment.

The French line which had been advancing directly eastward, suddenly turned south and executed a brilliant pivot and took trenches to a depth of a mile and a half. Germans in an unknown number were in the tunnel in the rear and obstinately refused to surrender. For 18 hours the French fought and a wounded German was sent in to inform them that the French would shell them out. Thereupon, they sortied in groups until more than 400 men and 10 officers were captured.

The Associated Press correspondent today went through the tunnel, which is nearly 1000 yards in length, with an 18-inch railroad track running from beginning to end. Inside at a depth of 12 yards, were sleeping quarters, munition depots, an infirmary, with the most modern surgical instruments, fresh water wells, tons of equipment, electric lights and ventilating pipes. The sides and roof were boarded up and it was possible to walk nearly upright, although at some places it was necessary to crouch, and many parts were inundated.

UNNATURALLY TIRED

Some men and many women feel tired all the time. This is not natural. Fatigue following work or great exertion is normal, but to be constantly tired indicates a diseased condition, usually thin blood. Backache generally accompanies this state of the system.

Such sufferers are usually pale, but the complexion is not improved by the transparency of the skin is increased, in brunettes it is decreased and the complexion becomes muddy. The eyelids become a greyish blue.

This condition of thin blood, which doctors call anemia, is a dangerous one if allowed to progress, but with proper treatment it may be speedily corrected. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain just the elements needed to build up the blood and restore the lost color and vitality.

New energy circulates through the system with the enriched blood, the heart stops its alarming palpitations, color returns to cheeks and lips.

Nothing more is needed except sunlight, good air, proper food and rest. A short walk each day will follow in these matters will today to the Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Your own booklet on the blood and diet. Your own Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

J. J. McDEVITT PARTY TO RUN J. J. McDEVITT FOR PRESIDENT

Wilkes Barre (Pa.) Man Once Offered Statue of Himself to City of Washington.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—J. J. McDevitt of Wilkes Barre, Pa., in response to the call of an enthusiastic citizenry, has decided to sacrifice his private interests on the altar of the public good and will accept the nomination of the J. J. McDevitt party to the presidency when its national convention is held in New York next Monday.

McDevitt, who graces Broadway now and again and in his lighter moments permits himself to be called Butch by his intimates, once upon a time offered his statue to the city of Washington and was rudely rebuffed. Delegates to the national convention of the J. J. McDevitt party will depart from Wilkes Barre by special train at 12:15 o'clock Monday afternoon, 100 or more strong.

After dinner in New York the delegates will repair to the convention hall, the location of which has not yet been announced, and J. J. McDevitt will call the national convention of the J. J. McDevitt party to order. J. J. McDevitt will be nominated by acclamation for the presidency. The nomination ceremonies will be held at once, thus departing from the silly custom of the older parties.

POLICE OBJECT TO PROMPT LIBERATION OF PRISONERS

Bonds for Pickpocket Suspects Executed Late in Evening by Judge Clark at Catterata's Cafe.

The police were complaining today over the prompt release on bonds of several men and women arrested before and during the Velled Prophet's parade last night, suspected of being pickpockets. Eight men and four women were released on bonds which Judge Clark of the Court of Criminal Correction signed about 11:30 o'clock last night at Catterata's saloon, Delmonico place and Hamilton avenue, and delivered to St. Senor Mike Kinney and John Golden, manager of a downtown saloon.

Judge Clark said this morning Kinney and Golden telephoned to him at Catterata's and asked if he would sign the bonds, and as he happened to have a number of blank forms in his pockets he told them to come to the cafe and he would grant their requests.

"Less than a week ago," he said, "I told Capt. O'Brien that I would not issue bonds for the release of prisoners whom the police wished to hold for the purpose of identification, if the police would inform me of their wishes, and I am willing to abide by that, but I was not so notified last night."

U. S. ARMY FLYING CORPS VINDICATED AFTER INQUIRY

Secretary Baker Finds Charges of Mismanagement Made by Hawley and Woodhouse Are Unfounded.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Secretary of War Baker has issued a statement defending the aviation section of the army against recently published attacks by Henry Woodhouse and Alan R. Hawley of the Aero Club of America, who intimated funds appropriated for aviation were being used improperly. Maj. William Mitchell, who has been developing the army flying corps, was the particular object of the attacks.

Secretary Baker's investigation disclosed no foundation for the charges. His statement, in part, follows:

"These charges were received by the department with the gravest concern, and the most thorough investigation was instigated under the immediate and personal direction of the Secretary of War. This investigation is now complete, and the allegations, even in the slightest degree, but has shown clearly that the development of this important branch of the military establishment is being conducted with energy and foresight. A firm foundation has been laid upon which a proper future expansion can be safely predicted."

WOMEN CAMPAIGNERS IN TOLEDO

Republicans Appear at Thirteen Meetings and in Auto Parade.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 4.—Thirteen public meetings with an automobile parade, a luncheon and a public reception completed the program here today of the 40 women Republican campaign speakers who arrived this morning on a special train on their transcontinental trip. The train will depart at 4 o'clock for Detroit.

The automobile parade, at 9:30, was the first event. Six street corner meetings were held at 10:30. Among the speakers at a noon meal meeting in a theater were Mrs. Raymond Robbins, Mary Antin, Dr. Katherine Davis and Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy.

FRIGHTENED STRIKERS AWAY

Milk Wagon Driver Supplied With Revolver by Patron.

The police this morning, investigating a report that a milk wagon driver had been assaulted, learned that a nonunion driver of the St. Louis Dairy Co. had used a revolver to defy four strikers who surrounded him when he got off his wagon at 4457 Berlin avenue, refusing to allow him to get back on. The police report said that Samuel Jones, living at the Berlin avenue address, came out and handed the revolver to the driver, whereupon the strikers went away.

The driver, whose name the police did not learn, gave the revolver back to Jones and resumed his deliveries.

BRITISH SAY 200 FLIERS CROSS LINES TO ONE OF ENEMY'S

Summary of Offensive on Somme Praises Work of Aircraft.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—An official report from Gen. Sir Douglas Haig, is fighting on the Somme front and says: "Since the opening of the battle on July 1, we have taken 36,735 prisoners and engaged 38 German divisions, of which 29 (about 250,000 men) have been withdrawn exhausted or broken. We hold the half moon upland south of the Ancre, occupy every height of importance and so have direct observation ground to the east and northeast. The enemy has fallen back upon a fourth line behind a low ridge just west of the Bapaume-Tranloy road.

"The importance of the three months' offensive is not to be judged by the distance advanced or the number of trench lines taken. It must be looked for in the effect upon the enemy's strength in numbers, material and morale. The enemy has used up his resources in repeated, costly and unsuccessful counter attacks, without causing our allies or ourselves to relax our steady, methodical pressure."

"In this action troops from every part of the British Empire and British Islands have been engaged," says the review. "All behaved, with the discipline and resolution of veterans. Our aircraft have shown in the highest degree the spirit of the offensive. They have patrolled regularly far behind the enemy's lines and have fought many battles in the air with hostile machines, and many with enemy balloons that ground. For every enemy machine that succeeds in crossing our front it is safe to say 200 machines cross the enemy's front."

FIVE HURT, TWO SERIOUSLY, WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS

Defective Steering Apparatus Causes East St. Louis' Car to Upset at Grand and Winnebago.

Five persons were injured, two seriously, when the automobile of Fred Reiffels, butcher, of 308 Market avenue, East St. Louis, overturned at Grand and Winnebago street last night.

Mrs. Marie Reiffels, wife of the owner of the car, suffered a fracture of the right arm and cuts on the head; Josephine Reiffels, 8 years old, his daughter, sustained a fracture of the skull; Gustave Reiffels, 438 Virginia avenue, his brother, a fractured right arm; May Reiffels, 4 years old, daughter of Gustave, face and head cut, and Viola Simmons, 16, 2725 Bond avenue, East St. Louis, fractured skull.

Fred Reiffels and Herman Jansen, 11 years old, of 438 Virginia avenue, were the only ones in the car who escaped injury. The others were taken to St. Anthony's Hospital. The accident was due to defective steering apparatus.

THE SEVEREST TEST A VARNISH EVER MET—And Valspar Came Through

WHAT do you think of a varnish that will come through a two hours bath in live steam and boiling water without injury? Valspar did it. Valspar could do it again, any day. The picture above shows what actually happened to a newly Valspared floor. We have a letter from the owner, saying that he simply mopped up the floor and did not have to revarnish. Can you beat it?

Why don't you insist on having such a varnish on your floors, tables, chairs and woodwork? No danger from spilling accidents.

Even alcohol ammonia, which literally "eats" ordinary varnishes, cannot hurt Valspar. And you don't have to oil Valspared surface to brighten it up. Simply wash it with soap and water.

Use Valspar wherever a varnish can be used and have washable, waterproof sanitary woodwork, that will keep its beautiful finish indefinitely. And never ask for just "varnish". Ask for Valspar. Anyone can apply it.

VEILED PROPHET'S BALL A BRILLIANT COMMUNITY FETE

Evolution of Event From Purely Social Function Strongly Marked Last Night.

MORE TRULY A PAGEANT

Provides Main Show, to Which Professional Entertainment Is Secondary.

More than ever before did the Veiled Prophet's thirty-ninth annual ball, last night at the Coliseum, reveal this function's evolution from a purely social event into St. Louis' biggest and most resplendent community pageant, with the city's leading citizens and fairest daughters in the role of mimes rather than in their proper persons, with the fiction of the mysterious seer's choice of a Queen serving for plot, and with the professional entertainment that was provided shrunk to the dimensions of a play within a play.

And, as is appropriate in a community spectacle, it was not so much in individuals as in the mass groupings that the highest beauty and drama were discovered. The audience itself, filling the great auditorium, tier on tier to the roof, packing the aisles against the walls and congested in the space outside the ropes in the arena, was a sight to make the breath catch. Even after those in the audience had poured down upon the floor the sense of theatrical unreality persisted, so that they seemed some vast chorus entering into its part in the action.

Illusion Helped by Costumes.
The illusion was especially heightened this year by the presence, in the multifarious costumes of their period and station, of the children of Shakespeare's brain, the impersonators from the floats of the Veiled Prophet's parade assembling into one glittering gathering the poet's Orlando and Rosalind, his Touchstone and Audrey, his Romeo and Juliet, his Prince Hal and Falstaff, his Hamlet and Ophelia, his Ariel and Puck, and a hundred other Kings and Queens, heroes and ladies, burlesques and fairies. When the kaleidoscopically gowned ladies and black-patched gentlemen of the present stepped down among the sprites of the bard's fancy, it seemed no more than a dramatic joining of hands between lords and ladies four centuries apart in time.

To the audience's correct feeling that it was witnessing a play rather than a dance was in part due to an unwelcome incident at the end, which went to prove that the term "ball," used to describe the event, is becoming more and more a misnomer. Previously, general dancing had immediately followed the lancers, performed according to tradition by the Prophet, his new queen, and their courtiers.

Last night the bandmaster lavished the most alluring lilts of a Waldteufel waltz, the first number of the ball program, and lavished them in vain. Not a toe stirred to dance. Instead, the audience, as if entering into the spectacle, passed in the throng before the Queen's dais, like subjects rendering homage. It became a courtly reception instead of a ball. The spectators in the gallery, most of whom faced a struggle for foothold on overcrowded street cars and long rides home, to their seats, sensing that the curtain had not yet fallen on the stage.

With the second dance number, a one-step, a few couples in the center of the floor ventured upon its measures, but most still remained motionless. It was not until the third number, a fox-trot, that dancing became general. But in half an hour only scattered couples remained on the floor. The play over, most had departed for the places where the real balls of the season were held: the St. Louis Club, where, in accordance with tradition, a dance was held in honor of the Queen; the Jefferson Hotel and the Missouri Athletic Association.

The central figure of the pageant was, of course, the young Queen, and in the selection of Miss Mary D. Jones, daughter of Breckinridge Jones of 42 Portland place, the Prophet made a choice that was at once one of the most unexpected and also one of the most popular of his long career. Other names had been mentioned more frequently than hers for this year's social diadem, but she had scarcely begun her stately progress across the arena to the Prophet's throne when surprise was turned into enthusiasm and the evening's first vociferous applause went through the auditorium—so stately and regal was the new sovereign, and with such self-possession and modesty did she bear herself under the glare of her honors.

With slow and measured pace, her mantle supported by two silk-clad pages and her long train sweeping behind, she approached the Prophet, who bent over her kneeling figure and fixed the royal crown upon her brown hair.

Entrance of Maids of Honor.
The maids of honor, who had preceded the Queen in the trying progress from the south to the north end of the arena, were Miss Marie Wight, who won the audience with her singularly illumined smile; Miss Catherine Parker, whose dark attractiveness excited many an admiring comment; and Miss Eleanor Stannard, whose blond features were in contrast with the prevailing style of the leading feminine characters.

The retiring Queen, Miss Jane Shapleigh, wore a green gown with a long train which was the subject of not a few rapturous exclamations among the feminine part of the audience, until their eyes were still more fascinated by the splendid white creation that adorned the new Queen. The maids of honor were supported by the usual concourse of maids and matrons, the latter far outnumbering the former in splendor of raiment.

The setting for the "play" was no less than brilliant, and it was the general opinion that the Coliseum has never been more beautifully transformed. The rafters were concealed by hangings of ivory and gold, with the Prophet's purple shield glowing here and there among them. The lighting effects were particularly fine, not only in the soft glow shed by the inverted lanterns in the roof but in the multicolored radiance poured upon the scene by many searchlights, which, as if bent on creating a gorgeous human banner, stained the crowded arena with bands of orange and scarlet, green and blue.

Entertainers Secondary.
In keeping with the feeling that, as a play, the Prophet's pageant was the thing, the professional entertainers were relegated more decidedly than ever to a secondary part. In the place of such predecessors as Scotti, Alma Gluck and Sophie Braslau, the vocal soloist was Miss Lydia Locke, a coloratura soprano. St. Louis is Miss Locke's native city, and her homecoming, after opera experiences in London, could not have been under more brilliant auspices.

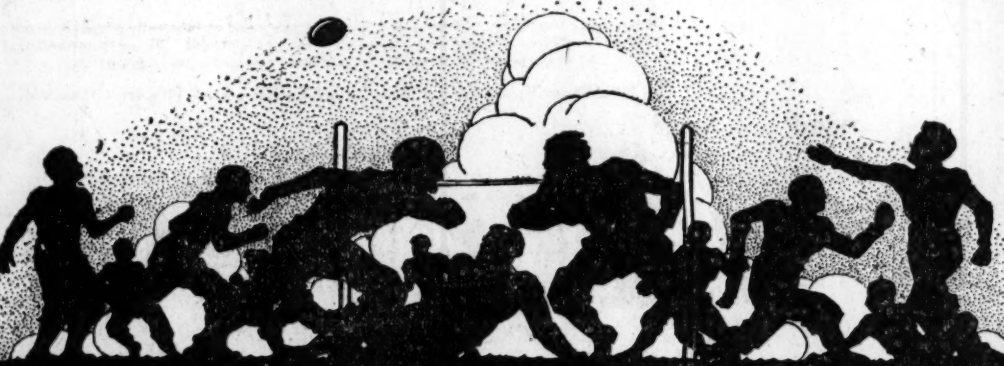

It is perhaps unfair to judge of a voice by its performance in the Coliseum, for most vocalists singing there have complained of its acoustics. But Miss Locke's light voice was often completely lost in the great spaces of the building; it was sometimes inaudible to those 50 feet away, and at the other end of the arena it was frequently impossible to tell, by witness of the ears alone, that any one was singing. Her numbers were the Valse Song from "Romeo and Juliet" and Bishop's "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark," for the latter of which an allegato was played by John Kiburt, first flutist of the Symphony Orchestra.

The "Veiled Prophet's Ballet," consisting of 16 dancers trained for the occasion, exceeded in numbers but not in power of producing poetic illusion, the ballet of last year's ball. One knew they were performing the "Dance of the Hours" from "La Gioconda," or the ballet from "Romeo and Juliet," but there was no convincing appeal to the imagination. The "Roses of the South" ballet, to music by Strauss, was their most pleasing number, but because of the attractiveness of its evolutions rather than any technical skill. Very charming was the effect when the dancers held aloft arches of roses under which the Queen passed on the way to her crowning.

The most artistic feature of the "play within a play" was the dancing of Miss Eva Swain of the Metropolitan Opera Co. ballet. Without the emotional power of Rosa Galil, to say nothing of Pavlova's unrivaled artistry, Miss Swain still has personality, and her dances were full of grace and winsomeness. She seemed to be best liked in a "Harlequin Dance," to music by Deigo.

The management again proved that, among all the great affairs held in St. Louis, the handling of the intricate problems of the Veiled Prophet's festivities touches the high-water mark of efficiency. Every detail ran like clockwork—the arriving and departure of hundreds of automobiles without the slightest difficulty and the great crowd, both within and without the Coliseum, was guided along its appointed grooves without an instant of friction. This feat was the more remarkable in that the spectators apparently arrived all at once, in a body, save for some hundreds of late comers. The doors were opened at 8 o'clock, and not more than half an hour afterward every seat in the Coliseum was occupied, and files of standees were beginning to form along the walls.

Putting It Over The Line

Many a man can think up plays in sport or business who lacks the rugged strength and energy to carry them out.

Human power comes from food, and it is vitally essential that it contain the elements required by both body and brain—in good balance, and in form for prompt digestion.

Grape-Nuts

combines all the nutriment of whole wheat and malted barley, including their mineral salts so necessary to thorough nourishment.

Grape-Nuts is a winning food—ready to eat direct from package, easy to digest, richly nourishing, and wonderfully delicious.

Every table should have its daily ration of Grape-Nuts.

"There's a Reason"

MORE COLOR IN V. P. BALL GOWNS THAN LAST YEAR

Most Beautiful of All Was the One Worn by the 1916 Queen.

This year there was more color in the gowns of the matrons and maids of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball, and the dais where they sat awaiting the arrival of his Mythic Majesty had all the color of a Bakst setting—for the colors this year are very vivid and the trimmings glitter with gold and silver, jet and crystals.

The gowns of the special maids, too, had touches of color, where last year they were all white.

The special maids were Miss Eleanor Stannard, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Stannard and the granddaughter of the late E. O. Stannard, Miss Katherine Parker, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Parker, and Miss Marie Wight, Mr. and Mrs. Ira E. Wight's daughter. Miss Stannard and Miss Parker are debutantes of the season and made their first formal bow last night. Miss Wight is a debutante of last season and one of the belles of the winter.

Miss Shapleigh is Italian-haired and her gown of vivid green chiffon over cloth of silver her bouquet of lavender orchids, added a charming bit of color as she walked the length of the room.

The gown was made with a very long train of the silver tissue veiled with the chiffon. Where the train reached the floor it was caught in with a big cluster of orchids.

Miss Wight wore a gown of silver cloth made with a round, short, full skirt of alternate bands of heavy silver lace.

The train, which fell the top of the dais, quite low in the back, was of turquoise blue velvet. Her bouquet and the bouquets of the three special maids were great artfuls of American beauties, with streamers of ribbon the same shade.

Miss Katherine Parker followed. She is one of the important buds of the season. She is of a gypsy type. Her gown was cloth of gold, with a short, round skirt doublet-like bodice of gold lace-edged. Her train was a narrow strip of gold cloth with a deep band of ermine edged with the black tails.

Miss Eleanor Stannard, the queen's first attendant, is as fair as Miss Parker is a brunette. Her gown was of white tulle over silver tissue, and her train, which was of the tissue was cut like a fish's tail, weighted at each point with big silver tassels.

The queen's robe was superb, one of the handsomest ever worn. There was a close-fitting bodice of crystal and silver beads in a lattice pattern. It reached below the hip line, where the skirt, which was billows of tulle formed by four squares of tulle that came up onto the lower part of the bodice in points that resembled flowers.

Her train was of white satin, brocaded in silver, and was so long that it extended beyond the royal mantle. The mantle was of white satin, brocaded in great gold flowers, and was edged all around with ermine.

She carried lavender orchids, tinged with pink.

The Busy Bee Luncheon and Tea Rooms, 417 N. Seventh street, will be open during the fall and winter season until 8 o'clock p. m. Special afternoon teas served from 3 to 5 o'clock.

EAST ST. LOUIS PACKING PLANTS TO ADD $400,000 TO PAYROLLS

In Two Plants Alone Increases in Pay Will Effect More Than 4000 Employees.

The increase in the wages of packing-house employees all over the country announced yesterday from Chicago, will mean an addition to the payroll of the three big plants at the National Stockyards, East St. Louis, of more than $400,000. The salaries of virtually all the employees, except the office forces, were increased 2 1/2 cents an hour.

In the Swift & Co. and the Armour company about 4000 persons will benefit by the raise, which will add $150,000 a year on each plant's payroll.

The raise will increase Morris & Co.'s payroll about $115,000 a year.

Members of the packing-house employees' union held a meeting last night in Polish Hall, Seventh street and St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, but did not discuss a strike, as had been announced they would. The members were divided in their personal opinions as to whether the advance in wages will settle the dissatisfaction of the plants.

FOUR HURT ON NEW YORK CARS

Strike-Sympathizers Attack Elevated Trains and Cross-Town Coaches.
NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Four passengers on elevated trains were injured today when sympathizers with the striking street railway men showered the trains with bricks and stones from roof tops. Six elevated trains and several cross-town surface cars were attacked. There were no arrests.

SENATOR JAMES TO SPEAK AT DEMOCRATIC RALLY AT ODEON

Bainbridge Colby, Also on Program Tonight, Unable to Be Present
Because of Accident.

United States Senator Ollie James of Kentucky, who was permanent chairman of the Democratic National Convention in St. Louis last June, will speak at a Democratic rally at the Odeon tonight. Bainbridge Colby, former leader of the Progressive party in New York, was scheduled to speak also, but was obliged to cancel his engagement on account of an accident.

Senator James spoke last night at Springfield. He is scheduled to make a short speech at the city hall at noon and at the Maxwellton fair at 2:30 p. m. The Democratic City Committee, at a meeting yesterday, made arrangements for the meeting tonight. Congressman William L. Igoe will be chairman of the meeting. Dr. John H. Simon will call the meeting to order.

This will be the first attempt of the Democrats to hold a big political meeting in St. Louis this fall. The doors of the Odeon will be open at 7 p. m. There will be no reserved seats except the boxes. Two boxes have been allotted to the Missouri Woman's Wilson Club.

BURGLARS RANSACK 11 HOMES

Apparently No Unusual Activity of Burglars Because of Parade.

Burglars apparently were no busier last night than at any other time in spite of the fact that many homes were left unguarded while the occupants were watching the Veiled Prophet parade.

Reports of larceny from dwellings included the theft of jewelry valued at about $400. The homes ransacked were those of August Beyer, 2023 North Thirtieth street; Mrs. Mary Sheridan, 2538 Finney avenue; Nick Gates, 1919 Anglerod street; Mrs. John Bockwinkel, 1919A Anglerod; William Bessler, 4016A Lucky street; Leopold Kober, 484 Evans avenue; A. A. Ash, 2012 Westminster place; Harry Fishkop, 206 Thomas street; Harry Grunson, 2806A Thomas street; August H. Frerick, 3500 Hartford street and Max Rothweiler, 4018A Lucky street.

STRIKERS' FAMILIES TO PARADE

3000 Wives and Children of New York
Carmen to Be in Line.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Plans for a parade of 3000 wives and children of the striking railway men here, either Monday or Tuesday of next week, were announced today by William B. Fitzgerald, one of the leaders of the strike. Labor chiefs say the demonstration will be a remarkable one and that following the parade the women will hold a mass meeting in Union Square.

$39,400 BEING RAISED BY SYMPHONY SOCIETY

Sum Will Make Season's Guarantee Fund $50,000—Seat Sale Large.

Plans for a vigorous campaign to raise a $50,000 guarantee fund were started at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the St. Louis Symphony Society today.

The Symphony Orchestra for a number of years has been operated under an annual deficit approximately of $30,000, which has been covered by a guarantee fund from public spirited citizens, who realize the necessity of such an institution to the city. With the additional increase in the number of instruments to place the orchestra on a footing with the other leading orchestras of the country, and to provide for a four weeks' tour at the end of the season, it was necessary to increase this fund to $50,000. Of this amount $10,000 has been subscribed and the Executive Committee is now engaged in securing the balance of $40,000.

The season seat sales, which are a separate source of revenue from the guarantee fund, but by no means sufficient to maintain the orchestra, are far in excess of those of any previous year. At present they have reached the high mark of $22,000, as against the total seat sales of last year of $20,000. The indications are that the seat sales of this year will show an increase of 15 per cent over last year.

The Executive Committee is confident that by Nov. 1, the opening of the symphony season, that the full $50,000 guarantee fund will have been subscribed. The members of the Executive Committee are: John Fowler, president; O. F. Richards, chairman; Miss Victor Ebling, M. A. Goldstein, Philip N. Moore, Horace S. Runney and B. J. Tausig; Messrs. Hanford Crawford, Archer W. Douglas, Edward A. Faust, Richard S. Hawes, Hugo A. Koehler, George D. Markham, J. N. W. Lambert, R. L. Swartz, James B. Smith, J. P. Thom and Charles Wiggins.

KENWOOD SPRINGS CITIZENS
WIN LOWER WATER RATES FIGHT

The new rules, regulations and schedule of rates of the West St. Louis Water and Light Co., approved Aug. 15 by the Missouri Public Service Commission, were read Monday night at the regular monthly meeting of Kenwood Springs

Municipal Association by the committee which had charge of a movement in 1917 to compel the water company to lower its rates and refund approximately $45,000 deposited by property owners for water meters.

The monthly minimum charge for water service through meters was reduced from $1.50 to $1. Consumption for manufacturing purposes amounting to 500-1000 gallons a month shall be at the rate of 15 cents per 1000 gallons, with a discount of 10 per cent for cash in 10 days. The water company agrees to refund meter deposits to customers.

Hughes, Taft and
on One Platform

of this country to decide in the spirit of the men who, in 1864, returned Abraham Lincoln to the presidency.

"Mr. Hughes has alluded to Mr. Wilson's speech on Saturday in which he said in effect that if you do not elect him the country might have war. That is substantially what he said, and the inference was that if he were there there would not be any war, leaving it to be inferred by the outside world that nobody could insult him so that he would fight.

"At this moment we are informed that in the German Reichstag there is a debate going forward as to whether or not they will resume what they call the U-boats warfare—what I call the murder on the high seas of men, women and children. And you can guarantee that there would be no debate on that subject if they knew that they had as President of the United States a man who would not tolerate any kind of action of that sort.

Criticizes President's Speech.
"Mr. Wilson's speech last Saturday was an invitation to foreign Powers to do whatever they wished because if he were in power they need not be afraid.

"Another thing," Col. Roosevelt continued, "in Mr. Lincoln's speech of acceptance, I think it was in that place that he so happily named Shadow Lawn." Elihu Root interrupted Col. Roosevelt.

"You said Mr. Lincoln's speech. You meant Mr. Wilson's speech," Root said. "Good heaven!" exclaimed Roosevelt.

"That was a verbal inaccuracy with a vengeance. In Mr. Wilson's speech of acceptance a few weeks ago there was one sentence—among many of which I took note—in which he said that if all essential rights were invaded by any nation they must be met by prompt challenge and resistance.

"Now! Take the sentence about keeping us out of war at all costs last Saturday and these sentences about prompt challenge and resistance together and one group of sentences in the weasel and the other the egg. It is open to Mr. Wilson which is the weasel and which is the egg. But one of them sucks all the meaning out of the other.

"If the speech last Saturday expressed his real convictions, then by prompt challenge and resistance he means tapping his adversary on the wrist. If you can once persuade an adversary that is all he has to fear he grows bold.

Divides President's Supporters.
"As Mr. Roosevelt pointed out this evening—Mr. Wilson is praised for the most part by people with shoulders that slope like a champagne bottle, by people with timid hearts and quivering voices who say that he has kept us out of war.

"Keep us out of war? He has kept us in three little wars that I can name. Twice we have been put into wars with Mexico, and once we have waged a war with Haiti, once with San Domingo. San Domingo and Haiti did not frighten the administration and with them we have valiantly waged war!

"We can be certain that with Mr. Hughes as President, in the first place, our people will be protected in their lives, in foreign lands or on the high seas—that is the primary duty; that is the first duty—and in the next place that our people will be protected in their property in foreign lands or on the high seas—a secondary duty, but an important duty also. And in the next place we can rest assured that if Mr. Hughes is President the executive of the nation will be terrorized by no one, whether from abroad or at home.

"Nothing more ominous to the future of America has ever been seen than the passing of this misnamed 'eight-hour law,' which was merely a law to raise wages; then the passing of that law by legislators looking not to the President, but to the great labor leaders who sat watch in hand, to see the law enacted. If Mr. Hughes is made President we can count with absolute certainty that not the group of the greatest capitalists in the land, nor yet the group of the most powerful labor leaders in the land will be able to get one thing at Washington by threats, by duress, by misstatement or in any other way save by showing before a competent tribunal the justice of their demands.

"I believe in labor unions—I am an honorary member of one myself—but I believe first of all in the great union to which all of us belong—the union of the United States of America."

Root Introduces Hughes.
Hughes, who preceded Col. Roosevelt, was greeted by Root in a speech in which he pledged the support of the club to the nominee's candidacy. Hughes spoke in part as follows:

"Our opponents have a good deal to say about their desire to facilitate American trade. Instead of facilitating American trade, the men who have been willing to carry American enterprises throughout the world have been deserted by the administration when they should have had support and encouragement.

"When men in a neighboring country, engaged in lawful pursuit, ask for American protection the inquiry is made of them whether they did not go beyond the borders of this nation in order to make money. If this nation desires to promote American enterprise, it must be known first of all that American rights with respect to lives, property and commerce, will be safeguarded in every part of the world.

"We have witnessed an administration failing to protect American rights and in a country close to our border, joining us where it was of the utmost importance to our influence in this hemisphere that a correct policy should be maintained. We have seen an official meddling on the one hand and a desertion of our citizens on the other.

"Our citizens were left without any proper protection by their Government while this administration, that boasts that it has kept us out of war, plunged us into an ignominious personal war, in violation of every principle of international law. It will be long before we will cease to reap the fruits of that folly. I regard it as worse than a mistaken policy—it was really no policy.

Reverts to Mexican Policy.
"What is the use of this administration talking to American business men with respect to the advancement of American enterprise, when those who had their investments in Mexico were unable to work their properties and had to flee at their own risk because their own Government would not see them protected in their known rights?

"If anything more unworthy could be suggested than the course taken in foreign affairs, it would be the surrender in domestic affairs of the power of American Government to the dictation of force.

"If I were entrusted with executive responsibility and any question to which I had proper relation, particularly a question relating to a great controversy that might seriously affect the welfare of the country, which it might become my duty to examine I would examine it to the last act and I would understand precisely what in justice was required and when that was ascertained I should endeavor to do, as forcefully as I knew how, what justice required, but I should stand like a rock against any suggestion that there should be a

FIGHT ON GARDNER WAS NOT INDORSED

Southern Methodist Conference in Anti-Saloon Resolutions Referred to No Candidate.

The Rev. Luther E. Todd, newly appointed presiding elder of the St. Louis district of the Methodist Church South, today denied a report that the St. Louis conference of the church, in its session at Cape Girardeau, which ended Monday, endorsed the Anti-Saloon League's fight on Fred D. Gardner, Democratic candidate for Governor. The league has charged Gardner with "bootlegging," by sending bottles of whisky, concealed in coffins, to customers of his coffin company living in dry territory.

Dr. Todd said the conference passed the usual strong resolution condemning the liquor business and endorsing the Anti-Saloon League, as he said, it has done every year recently. But the resolution said nothing about any candidate for office, he declared, and he said that the conference, in endorsing the league, did not necessarily commit itself to the support of all the league's acts and policies.

HUMAN TISSUES CULTIVATED AFTER REMOVAL FROM BODY

New York Pathologist Announces
That Regeneration Has Been Continued for Several Months.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—A method of cultivating human tissue after its removal from the body, so that it probably will continue to grow and multiply indefinitely, was announced today by Dr. Robert A. Lambert of the Pathological Laboratory of the Presbyterian Hospital. Whether the experiments would have any value in conserving human life the investigator does not state.

In describing the result of his experiments Dr. Lambert said that difficulty in finding a culture medium for human tissues "can be overcome by adding to human plasma or serum a small quantity of fetal or pigeon plasma, the fibrin of which is highly resistant to digestion. Human tissues," he continued, "have been propagated in this medium for several months through successive cultures and the growth in vitro (glass jars) can probably be maintained indefinitely."

yielding to force, whether of labor or capital.

"I deplore this recent transaction. I am not talking about an eight-hour day; there is no such question involved."

Taft's Address at Close.
Taft followed Col. Roosevelt, "I concur," Taft said, "in the view of Mr. Roosevelt that election is the most important we have had in this country since the war. Our adversaries rely on an appeal to people that we have not been put into war—when it was not necessary for us to go to war at any rate—and that we have got great temporary prosperity."

"Have we been kept out of war? Is the treatment that we have given Mexico one that assures us peace? Had we allowed Mexico to work out her own salvation, as we have been told in the Indianapolis speech we ought to do, then we should not be responsible, as we now are, for the conditions that prevail in Mexico; and therefore when this war is over the policy we have pursued in Mexico is going to follow us, and we may have to answer for our intermeddling, our desire to punish one person and to say to the Mexicans whom they may have to rule over them and whom they may not have. I do not consider that keeping us out of war."

"We are here to welcome the next President of the United States. And I may say incidentally also we are holding one of those exceptional meetings of the ex-Presidents' Club. It is not a large membership. And the members do not always, or perhaps, ever, entertain completely harmonious view."

"And there is one subject upon which we are unanimous to a point that I cannot exaggerate, and that is that we are going to elect in November another member of that club."

WASHINGTON AV. AT BROADWAY

5 WOMEN, 2 MEN AND ONE GIRL INJURED BY AUTOMOBILES

Accidents Happen in Various Parts of the City, but Only One A-cost to blame.

Mrs. Mattie Hollander, 65 years old, of 4045 McPherson avenue was knocked down at Vandeventer and McPherson avenues last night by an automobile driven by Arthur E. Harris, 316 Utah place. She was cut on the head and bruised.

Mrs. Katherine Reinhardt, 65 years old, of 4128 California avenue, was knocked down by a machine which William Schulze, 606 Arsenal street, was driving, at Grand and Laclede avenues. Her right foot was crushed.

Mrs. Pauline Seeger, 127 South Jefferson avenue, and her daughter, Margaret, 11 years old, were slightly bruised when an automobile driven by Mrs. Seeger's husband, William Seeger, collided with a car driven by Armond Logeman of Normandy, Mo., at Grand avenue and Lindell boulevard. Both machines were damaged.

George E. Marble, 80 years old, of 1432 North Grand avenue was knocked down at Grand avenue and Lindell boulevard by an automobile driven by Orville Shivers, colored, of 425 Finney avenue. His right hip was fractured and he was taken to the city hospital. Shivers was arrested on a charge of carelessness.

Isadore Cohen, a newspaper carrier, of 728 Dayton street, was hit by an automobile owned by the Mexican Consul, Victor street, and driven by his son, Ralph Mayer, at Washington and Grand avenues. He was cut and bruised on the head and left side of the body.

Mrs. Emily Champlin, 21 years old, of 211 Franklin avenue was run down at Elliot and Franklin avenue by Edward R. Hinkel, 219 Halliday avenue, driving an auto. She was cut and bruised.

Mrs. Pearl Johnson, 1820 Wash street, was cut on the head by flying glass from a broken windshield when an automobile belonging to her husband, Louis Johnson, collided with an express wagon at Twenty-first street and Franklin avenue.

"RISKY" PLAY, AT PARK, BORES A SMALL AUDIENCE

"The Girl in the Taxi" Is Put on While Police Are Busy

The Park Theater Stock Company, playing "The Girl in the Taxi" last night, ventured into the realm of the risqué. Pronounce it "risky" if you wish, for in the case of a stock company which makes its chief appeal to family patronage, the risqué is always risky.

The police, who have interfered with "The Girl in the Taxi" in some other cities, were not to be feared last night, for they were busy elsewhere. However, it cannot be said that the Park management took an unfair advantage of the police by opening the play on Velled Prophet's night; for the small audience was not shocked half so much as it was bored.

The "girl" is a married woman with an easy way of throwing her arms about the necks of chance male acquaintances, and the principal scene is a private dining room with numerous alcoves, where she meets her admirers. The chief object, apparently, is to make her husband ridiculous.

PRISONER ALLEGED TO HAVE ADMITTED KILLING BRIDE, 67

Grand Rapids Man Said to Have Robbed Her in Woods After Shooting Her Day After Wedding.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 4.—James Allen, 64 years old, confessed yesterday, according to Sheriff Berry, that he murdered Mrs. Hannah St. John, 67 years old, of Mayfield, N. Y., in a lonely wood near here. The woman's body, with bullet holes in the forehead and right arm, was found Sunday.

Allen, who, it is said, used the names James Alerton and John Williams, is alleged to have confessed that he married Mrs. St. John shortly after her arrival here from Mayfield, Sept. 19, and that the day following the marriage he took her into the woods and killed her with a revolver and took with him what money she carried.

Officers say that in Allen's baggage they found letters from women in other states, whose addresses had been obtained through a matrimonial agency.

Mrs. St. John was the wife of Warren St. John of Westboro, Wis. They were married four years ago, but had not lived together recently.

ALL GREEK CABINET MEMBERS BUT TWO HAVE RESIGNED

Friends of Venizelos Expected to Hold Portfolios in New Ministry.

ATHENS, Oct. 4.—The resignations of all the Cabinet Ministers except the Premier, Nikolaos Kalogeropoulos, and the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Alexander Carapanos, now are in the hands of the king. The Cabinet probably will be arranged so that several supporters of M. Venizelos, the former Premier, will hold portfolios, thus giving the new Ministry a national character.

Orders have been issued to the royalist newspapers to cease attacking M. Venizelos, in view of the co-operation of his adherents with the new Government.

SAVE YOUR HAIR AND BEAUTIFY IT WITH "DANDERINE"

Spend 25 cents! Dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out. Try this! Hair gets beautiful, wavy and thick in few moments.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scour robs the hair of its luster and strength and its very life and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. It eventually—why not now?—ADV.

EDITOR HARVEY, FORMER WILSON SUPPORTER, TELLS WHY HE IS FOR HUGHES

Declares President Is Incapable of Meeting National Crisis—Says Main Issues Are Military and Industrial Preparedness.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Col. George Harvey, who was the first to propose Woodrow Wilson for President in 1906, and who supported him in 1912, comes out squarely for Hughes in the forthcoming number of the North American Review. Col. Harvey has not been a friend of Mr. Wilson, since the latter requested him in the midst of the 1912 campaign to refrain from supporting him through the columns of Harper's Weekly, because that publication was dominated by the Morgan interests. After reviewing the record of the administration in his usual trenchant fashion, Col. Harvey continues:

"It is neither the past nor the present, but the immediate future, that should hold first place in the minds of American citizens at this critical time."

Whether it was the President, the Kaiser or the good Lord who kept us out of war is of little moment. The seeming fact that whatever likelihood there may have been of our being drawn into the great conflict at this critical time, suffices present needs. Only the most insane partisan would venture to suggest a possibility of either Mr. Wilson or Mr. Hughes inciting or inviting war with any European or Asiatic Power. The two vital questions to be answered at the polls one month hence are: Which of the two great parties at this particular juncture in our progress as a nation is the better equipped and the more likely to render the highest public service and which of the two designated leaders is the more certain to 'preserve, protect and defend' the Constitution of the United States? Brushing aside, as well we may at such a time, all minor considerations, we find the overpowering issues to be:

"1. Military and industrial preparedness.

"2. Government by and for the people.

"3. National honor and opportunity.

"Speed and Skill Needed.

"Credit for the provision of military enlargement may fairly be apportioned evenly between the united opposition which, under the invigorating championship of Mr. Roosevelt, aroused a public sentiment which Mr. Wilson could not afford to ignore, and the converted administration itself, which, after losing two precious years, coerced a reluctant Congress into actual performance. Adequate funds have been provided at last, and the program adopted is promptly being carried out. But the mere appropriation of large sums of money does not suffice. The question now is one of celerity and efficacy in construction.

"Could Josephus Daniels build a great navy in the shortest possible time if he would? And would he if he could? These are the pregnant queries which rise inevitably in all thoughtful minds at a time when speed and skill are the prime requisites. That both must be answered decisively in the negative is, we believe, the universal judgment.

"Recurring, then, to our queries, we answer that Mr. Daniels has neither the skill nor the will to expend effectively the great sums of money to be drawn from the people by their express command for immediate protection. Once let him realize on Nov. 7 and he is fixed irrevocably in authority for another four years, quick reversion to his early and real predilections will follow, obstacle will be piled upon obstacle, delay will succeed delay, our first line of defense, already gravely impaired, will be shattered and the navy itself, from the highest active Admiral to the humblest sailor, will raise hands to high heaven in disgust and despair.

"Fears Misuse of Power.

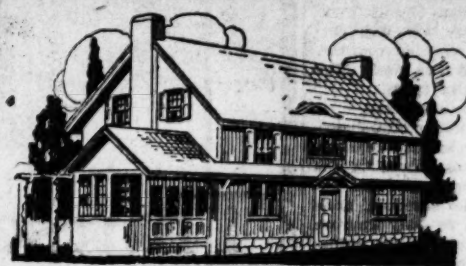

"Worst and most sinister of all is the provision in the new bill which changes promotion by seniority to promotion by selection. That the new method is preferable to that which prevailed under the unpopular plucking board we can readily believe. That it would prove advantageous, moreover, under the direction of a capable, honorable and unbiased secretary is quite probable. But when one recalls the gross favoritism practiced during the last three years, the persistent demoting and humiliating of officers universally recognized as the most competent in the navy, the constant punishment of those impelled by a sense of duty to their country to speak the truth, the lying about Admiral Fiske's recommendations and the repeated gratifying of personal grudges, the mere contemplation of Josephus Daniels being vested with this tremendous power incites a feeling little short of horror.

"Despite the surpassing mental and moral excellence of the new Secretary of War as contrasted with his colleague, the army situation is even more discouraging than that of the navy. While it is well within the range of possibility that the President could have obtained more promising legislation if he had stood squarely by his pledge to Secretary Garrison, there is much to be said in extension of his abrupt reversal of position. Undoubtedly the Democratic majority in Congress was more strongly opposed to the continental army plan than to any proposal theretofore enforced upon them by the executive. It is indeed doubtful whether their acknowledged leader, the unjustly abused Mr. Hay, even if he had been willing to make the attempt, could have fetched them into line. If the President, instead of twisting and squirming and vainly trying to belaud the issue to save his face as master, had frankly admitted that he was unable to secure what he thought was best and must perforce accept what he could get, the country would have held him, if not his party, blameless. But the fateful compromise followed and the outcome was the inevitable hodgepodge, whose sole merit is a trifling theoretical increase in the regular army, which has not yet been and seems not likely soon to be realized.

"Result of Muddling.

"The plain fact is that the anomalous scheme of 'Federalizing the militia' has already proved abortive. It is hardly conceivable that even the huge sums of money allotted to the state organizations, only to be squandered in profligate fashion, as indicated by the records of previous expenditures under the Eick bill, submitted with telling force by Senator Borah, could have produced so much as a semblance of success. But if anything were needed to affix the finality of failure at the very outset it quickly appeared in the blundering of the War Department's call to arms, which convinced every guardman sick to the border that he had been tricked into an enlistment which he never intended to make. The immediate effect is already seen in the impossibility of filling militia companies, and the ultimate outcome, in all probability, will be the doom of the very national guard which the ill-fated measure was designed to exalt and perpetuate.

"Here, then, beyond question to our mind, as the direct consequence of bootless muddling, is the most difficult problem confronting the incoming administration. And yet, if all the advantages of adequate appropriations already obtained is not to be sacrificed and all hope of true preparedness is not to be abandoned, it is imperative that we should

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CAR

Dealers say that the disposition to discuss the price of the car is so rare as to be unusual.

Apparently the first, and the almost universal, thought is of the goodness of the car.

It will pay you to visit us and examine this car.

The gasoline consumption is unusually low. The tire mileage is unusually high. The price of the Touring Car or Roadster complete is $785 (f. o. b. Detroit)

tion, immunity from prejudice against real Federalization of armed forces and the declared opposition of Mr. Hughes not a Democratic President, both of whom are committed to the present abortion and would undoubtedly insist upon a long period of futile trying-out.

The Republican party has at least the advantage of a clean slate, freedom of action to the existing makeshift.

"It all resolves to this: Whether one approves or disapproves of the huge expenditures provided for national defense, the appropriations have been made, and the only question now is, who can utilize the resources in hand to the greatest advantage of the country in obtaining the quickest and most effectual results? The Republicans, who are sincere in their advocacy of preparedness, or the Democrats, who are not? The question seems to answer itself.

Neutral Trade Endangered.

"While some—not including ourselves—may agree with the President that we are 'not interested in the causes' of the great conflict now being waged for human liberty and personal freedom, none can have the hardihood to deny that we are most deeply concerned in the industrial warfare that is bound to follow.
Already, following the Paris conference initiated by England, the allies are formulating plans, not merely for mutual trade intercourse, but to possess the markets of the world. Ostensibly the far-reaching scheme being formulated is in the succinct words of the London Chambers of Commerce, 'for regulating, by tariff and otherwise, trade relations with all enemy countries so as to render impossible a return to pre-war conditions, and for stimulating the development of home manufactures, and consequent increased employment of native labor'; but while only 'enemy countries' are referred to, it is an open secret that neutral nations are to be placed in the same category.

"What this may mean to American manufacturers based, notes upon revenue needs, but upon conditions of production and competition at home and abroad; and when the President, completely reversing his previous position as defined in his letter to ex-Gov. Cox, of Ohio, and in his sarcastic boasting at Indianapolis of having 'put over' on the Republicans, supplemented in his speech of acceptance the declaration of his own platform with the sage observation that 'we can not longer indulge in our traditional provincialism,' Mr. Hughes, nevertheless, convinces in his insistence that the only way to meet protection is with protection.

"The pressing question is, Which of the two parties is the better equipped to meet the situation? And we fear there can be but one answer.

Government for and by People.

"The traditions and prejudices of all save a very few of Democratic Senators and Congressmen are so strongly opposed to protection of 'robbery of the many for the benefit of a few' that it was with the greatest reluctance that they passed even a ridiculously ineffectual 'anti-dumping' law. While tacitly conceding the need of protective measures, they have thus created the problem for political purposes, without attempting in any serious way to effect a solution. Again we are driven to the practical conclusion that true industrial preparedness, in common with true military preparedness, can be attained only through the sincere advocates and consistent friends.

"Since Fort Sumter was fired upon there has been no such assault upon the right of the American people to rule themselves as that of the four brother-hoods at Washington in August of the present year. Then, as in '61, government of arbitration, but he said no word was openly threatened by a self-constituted oligarchy. And the cases are not dissimilar. Fifty-five years ago the Union was confronted by the grim specters of secession and segregation. Last month it was the Union, backed to the wall, but with this difference in result:
Anderson resisted to the limit of endurance; Wilson yielded without a struggle.

"They did not so seriously menace the railway companies, which had only revenues to lose and properties to damage; they threatened the people, all of the helpless and unoffending people in every city and hamlet in the land, with hunger or starvation unless within fortnight the Government should impose upon their employers, under the specious and false guise of an 'eight-hour day' which they themselves would not accept, an increase of 25 per cent in wages.

"Personally the President would yield to no man in firm adherence, alike of conviction and of purpose, to the principle of arbitration, but he said no word in criticism of the brotherhoods for rejecting the principle and paradoxically rebuked the companies for declining a settlement which, in his judgment, they would ultimately be obliged to accept by concerted action of organized labor backed by the favorable judgment of society and which 'would engage all the forces of justice, public and private, on their side to take care of the events,'
i. e., to increase the freight rates, 'for which, of course, the public would pay.'
To this end he besought the 'explicit approval by the Congress of the consideration by the Interstate Commerce Commission of an increase of freight rates' and 'immediate provision for the enlargement of the commission,' ostensibly to facilitate its work but really to enable him to pack the court.

"Great Body of Workers do Pay Bill.
"It was he, the President of the United States, who deliberately proposed the muzzling of the great body of his own constituents, the millions of low-paid workmen, farmers, professional men, teachers, clerks, saleswomen and tollers in sweat-shops no less than the well-to-do in the interest, not even of a class, but of a class within a class, comprising 400,000 voters, without cost to the companies or to the shippers who were to comprise the other parties to the conspiracy. 'The public,' sentimentally remarked A. B. Garretson, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Conductors, is the carcass and we all perhaps are the vultures.

"The terrorized Democratic Congress blanched and wavered. There was no time for them to canvass the sentiment in their districts except as expressed in telegrams received by them from a small part of the constituencies.

"But time was up! In the gallery sat the four representatives of 400,000 voters, holding their votes.

"And so Mr. Honey describes the surrender and passage of the act.

"But, he asks, 'what would Hughes have done?' When word of the surrender of the President, and Congress reached him in Nashville, taking no time for consideration or consultation regarding political consequences, he uttered be-

FOUR DOCTORS DISAGREED

Pains Disappeared After Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I was suffering from a terrible backache and pains in my side, and was very nervous.
I was always tired, always drowsy, never could get enough sleep and could not eat. I had four doctors and each told me something different. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. I got good results, and now I feel better than I have felt for years, and I am gaining in weight. I can gladly recommend it to all women."—Mrs.
George W. Sebald, 1611 West 4th Street, Wilmington, Del.

Backache and kindred pains are danger signals which every woman should heed. Remove the cause of these aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that good old root and herb medicine.
Thousands of women have testified to its virtues.

For forty years it has been making women strong, curing backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, hot flashes and weakness.

Garland's Thursday—A Startling Sale of Suits

"Looking Backward" a Few Weeks.

JUST 4 WEEKS AGO TOMORROW—Sept. 7th—we had a wonderful sale of Suits.
Many of you will recall it. There are 395 women and misses we know will remember it—the 395 who each got one of the Suits. We sold on that day 348 Suits before 3 o'clock. Many other women, who came late in the afternoon, also will remember the beautiful 8 suits, and how disappointed they were when they found their sizes gone. And the 47 misses and small women who bought the 47 remaining small sizes—they'll recall the wonderful Suits and the matchless value.

WELL—HERE'S A SALE for tomorrow that'll surpass that one in every way.
Then we only had 395 Suits—173 of the original purchase of 568 having been delayed in transit.
The values then were $29.50 to $40.00—and the price was $20. Tomorrow we'll have 557—from the same high-class maker—styles just brought out for October business. Suits made to sell up to $49.50, and the price will be $17.50. Then the sizes were limited to some extent—more than the usual proportion of small sizes. Tomorrow you'll find plenty of every size from 34 to 44, and special sizes for misses and small women. You'll see styles that haven't been shown, and you'll get choice

$27.50, $35 and Up to $49.50 Suits for

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG --- PRETTY!

Apply Q-Ban—Harmless—No Dye
—Changes Gray, Strained Faded
Hair to a Beautiful Dark Shade.

If your hair is gray, streaked with gray, prematurely or just turning gray or if your hair is dry, harsh, thin or falling, simply shampoo hair and scalp a few times with Q-Ban Hair Color Restorer. Soon every strand of hair (whether gray or not) becomes evenly dark, soft, lustrous, fluffy, full of life and health, full and heavy and fascinating, and entire head of hair is so beautifully and evenly darkened no one could suspect you had applied Q-Ban. It is absolutely harmless and no dye, but Q-Ban acts on roots, restoring color glands. Sold on a money-back guarantee. 50¢ for a big bottle at

New Way to Curl Hair Has Many Advantages

You will find the following to be a simple and excellent method of curling the hair. Apply a little liquid silicone with a clean toothbrush, drawing this down the full length of the hair. Then roll the hair in curlers. In three hours let the hair down and you will be quite amazed at the result. You will have the prettiest curls and waves imaginable, altogether natural in appearance. Aside from this, the advantages of the silicone method are that the hair is curled so quickly that it remains in curl a long time, that it has such a lovely sheen as luster, and is so beautifully fluffy when combed out. A few ounces of liquid silicone from your druggist will last for weeks. It is, of course, perfectly harmless.—ADV.

Black Silk Stove Polish

It is not only most economical, but it gives a brilliant, silky lustre that cannot be obtained with any other polish. Black Silk Stove Polish does not rub off—it lasts four times as long as ordinary polishes—it saves you time, money and worry.
Don't forget—when you use Black Silk Stove Polish, it not only polishes, but it restores the natural color and luster of your metal. It removes all dirt and grime, and leaves a fine, smooth surface. It is the best polish for silverware, nickel ware, brass, and iron. It is the only polish that does not contain any poisonous or harmful materials. It is the only polish that is safe for use on all metals.

fore a hostile audience these plain, blunt words:

"I believe in, and stand here firmly for the principle of arbitrating all industrial disputes, and I would not surrender it to anybody in the country. I believe that anything that is right in this country can be settled right. What is our great republican Government? What are our free institutions? We have come down the long course of history with the people fighting slowly, slowly—now with defeat and now with victory—for a recognition of the right of reason instead of the reign of tyrants and force."

"Now, then, I stand for two things—first, for the principle of fair, impartial, thorough, candid arbitration; second, for legislation on facts according to the necessities of the case; I am opposed to being dictated to either in the executive department or in Congress by a party or on earth before the facts are known and in the absence of facts."

"We have a great country and a great future. But it can only be preserved by the way. That way is the way of all honest, fair-minded people, and candid treatment. Show me the way that is right and I will take it, but I won't take any way that I do not know anything about."

"I would rather be beaten for President a thousand times, he has since said, 'than ignore or attempt to evade such an issue involving the very existence of popular government or seem to acquiesce for one moment in such action as that taken in Washington.'"

"What Hughes would have done, or what he will do if occasion shall arise ought now to be clear because—and this fact should be borne constantly in mind—Hughes always means what he says."

"Proof of this statement is to be found in the record. When renominated for Governor in 1908, Governor Hughes promised that 'every measure proposed on behalf of labor' should have 'serious and sympathetic consideration' because 'the welfare of the toiling masses is of the deepest concern to all.' And when his work was ended the recognized organ of the State Federation of Labor said:

"Now that Gov. Hughes has retired from politics and ascended to a place on the highest judicial tribunal in the world, the fact can be acknowledged without hurting anybody's political feelings, that he was the greatest friend of labor laws that ever occupied the Governor's chair at Albany. During his two terms he has signed 56 labor laws, including among them the best labor laws ever enacted in this or any other state."

Says Flag Was Desecrated.

"To the living issue thus outlined to the best of our ability must be added another: National honor and opportunity. We shall not recount the many episodes of the last three years which have flushed the cheeks of our countrymen with shame and humiliation. It suffices to say in bitter truth that no longer can an American stand erect before any tribunal in the world, as Paul Wood before a plate, and declare with pride and confidence his citizenship. Not only has the protection of the flag been officially withdrawn from those who have crossed the border line, but the flag itself has been wantonly desecrated and over again without incurring the swift retribution which invariably has thereto from the beginning of the republic has been visited upon offenders. It remains only to note the futility even of hope that the policy of pusillanimity initiated by itself may be reversed by this administration which to herald with gratification and gratitude the dependable assurance of Mr. Hughes that he stands with no less steadfastness for American rights abroad than for equal rights at home. And here again we assert, indeed, we can not reiterate too frequently or too significantly—that every American knows and that every foreigner will quickly learn, that Hughes always means what he says."

"It is no disparagement of Mr. Wilson to say that he has no friends abroad. But even though his misfortune be one of uncontrollable circumstance rather than of wavering ineptitude, the fact exists and must be reckoned with, that in all Europe he is the one most mistrusted and condemned of men, whose tender of aid in the name of justice, fairness and humanity would be rejected unanimously with derision and scorn."

"As a purely practical matter, then, if we would indeed serve mankind, we may not disregard the vital consideration that the way of opportunity is barred to Mr. Wilson and is wide open to Mr. Hughes, who in consequence of his previous inaction stands alone among our public men as uncommitted and unsuspected and who is known to the outside world only as a great and just Judge versed in the affairs of nations and alive to the needs of humankind."

"There is no need to seek a conclusion. It finds itself. Upon the clearly marked issues and as between the candidates, there is no reason why any professional Republican or any thoughtful Progressive or any principled Democrat should not and every reason why every patriotic American should vote."

GRANDMOTHER USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HER HAIR WHEN FADED OR GRAY

Sage Tea, when Mixed with Sulphur, makes Your Hair Soft, Beautiful and Removes Dandruff at Once.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded streaked appearance this simple remedy was applied with wonderful effect. But the brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than our selves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some drug-gists make their own which is usu-

PREACHER GETS A DIVORCE

Court Orders Reference to Belleville Girl Stricken From Record.
Information was received at Belleville yesterday that a divorce was granted a few days ago at Washington, Ind., to the Rev. Tolman Ragdale, former pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church at Belleville.

Mrs. Ragdale resented the suit and filed a cross bill, in which she charged him with undue friendliness with women of churches he had served as pastor, and specified that he had been attentive to Miss Mary Gooch, who attended the Belleville church. The court not only dismissed Mrs. Ragdale's cross bill, but ordered that all references to Miss Gooch be stricken from the record on the ground that the testimony did not in the slightest degree bear out Mrs. Ragdale's charges.

HOW COL. HARVEY BROUGHT WILSON OUT FOR GOVERNOR AND THEN FOR PRESIDENT

Writer Who Was Associated With Editor Details Campaign That Was Inaugurated When Wilson Was Head of Princeton University.

A DETAILED story of the work done by Col. George Harvey, editor of the North American Review, and a Hughes supporter, to make Woodrow Wilson President, by way of first making him Governor of New Jersey, is told in this week's issue of Collier's Weekly, by William Inglis, who was formerly associated with Col. Harvey in the editorial management of Harper's Weekly. "Helping to Make a President," is the title of Inglis' article.

One of the striking features of the article is a statement as to the manner in which, in the writer's view, the support of Josephus Daniels was first obtained for Wilson as a presidential candidate. Inglis implies quite plainly that Daniels was won by an appeal to his personal vanity.

Col. Harvey and Woodrow Wilson first met, Inglis says, in June, 1905, when Harvey was a guest at Wilson's inauguration as president of Princeton University. Harvey was in a party of which the Armours of Chicago, were hosts, and which included President Harper of Chicago University and Robert T. Lincoln.

Harvey was enthusiastic, as others were, about the inaugural address delivered by Wilson, and remarked to President Harper, "That man could win the people; I want to know about him."

Seven months later, he relates, Harvey sought the privilege of speaking at a dinner given by the Lotos Club of New York, in Wilson's honor, Feb. 8, 1906.

Harvey "Nominated" Wilson.

In this speech, Col. Harvey spoke of Wilson as one who had imbibed traditions of statesmanship in his native Virginia, and had learned practical application of those principles, in his later environment, and ended by "nominating" him for President of the United States.

Before going to bed that night Wilson wrote a note thanking Harvey for his remarks. "It was most delightful," he wrote, "to have such thoughts uttered about me, whether they were deserved or not, and I thank you with all my heart."

Harvey printed his speech in Harper's Weekly, and followed it with editorials calling attention to Wilson as a presidential possibility. The attitude of the newspapers, Inglis relates, was one of "amusement rather than derision," yet it was more or less seriously discussed by some of the ablest editorial writers. Active help was given by the Brooklyn Eagle, through St. Clair McKelway, its editor, and by the Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier, whose editor, Maj. J. C. Hemphill, was enlisted in the Wilson movement through a visit made to him by Col. Harvey particularly for that purpose.

Early in 1907, the article relates, Col. Harvey assigned the writer, Inglis, to give him time and thought chiefly to the Wilson campaign.

No Chance in 1908.

"The people were not only a change of men, but a change of type," he quotes Harvey as saying at that time. "Roosevelt alarms them, and they are sick and tired of Bryan." He went on to say that Wilson met all requirements, but that there was no chance of making him President in the next year, 1908, as Bryan was too strong, and Wilson was not sufficiently known.

Consequently, Inglis says, Col. Harvey told him the thing to do was to make Wilson Governor of New Jersey in 1910. "The country will then be disgusted with the Republican party," he argued, "and the Democrats should make a clean sweep."

At this time the New Jersey Legislature was about to elect a United States Senator and the Republicans were largely in the majority. As a measure of political publicity in Wilson's behalf, Col. Harvey undertook to get the Democrats in the Legislature to give Wilson the complimentary vote of their party caucus. This effort came to naught, partly through the unwillingness of former Senator James Smith Jr. of Newark to withdraw his name, and partly because several of the younger Assemblymen were opposed to the suggestion of Wilson. One of these opponents of the Wilson idea was Joseph P. Tumulty, now secretary to the President.

In January, 1908, Inglis relates, Harvey told him of an interview he had had the night before with Joseph Pulitzer, proprietor of the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

"At first," Col. Harvey told him, "Mr. Pulitzer made a good deal of fun of what he termed my 'professorial candidate.' But we talked along until Mr. Pulitzer became really interested, and asked all manner of questions about Wilson. I kept arguing with him that the World surely could lose nothing by speaking a good word for a Democrat of the highest class, and finally he said, with one of his big gasps: 'Well, I'll tell you what I'll do. I will print an editorial coming out for Wilson if you will write it.'"

Wrote Wilson Editorial.

Col. Harvey wrote the editorial, and later told Inglis that he had read it to Mr. Pulitzer during a drive in the park. "The only comment he made was, 'It sounds like a speech.' He fairly roared, though, when I rejoined that I had done my best to adapt my style to the World's."

The editorial, as written by Harvey and printed as a double-headed leader in the World, the next day, began: "If the Democratic party is to be saved from falling into the hands of William J. Bryan as permanent receiver, a man must be found and soon. Disassociated opposition will no longer suffice. There must arise a real leader around whom all Democrats uninfected by populism, and thousands of dissatisfied Republicans, may rally with the enthusiasm which springs only from a certainty of deserving success, and at least a chance of achieving it."

The editorial went on to tell what "The Man" must stand for, and to say that one Democrat, possessed of qualifications to meet these exacting requirements, was the president of Princeton. The World, it was added, had presented Gov. Johnson of Minnesota as an available Western candidate for the nomination. "It takes equal pleasure in presenting Woodrow Wilson as a Southern candidate, no less available and with presidential qualifications exceeded by those of no man whose name will be presented to any national convention."

When Wilson was interviewed, soon after, in Pittsburgh, as to the suggestion of his candidacy, he replied that "there are other wires than mine which will attract the lightning." This was true at the time, and Bryan received the Democratic nomination, for the third time, in that year.

Elitist Boss Help.

One morning, in January, 1910, Inglis says, Col. Harvey informed him that he (Harvey) had persuaded former Senator Smith, the Democratic boss of New Jersey, to take under consideration the idea of Wilson's candidacy for Governor at the fall election. Smith, Harvey said, did not seem to "appreciate the smash which is going to overwhelm the Republican party next November." Harvey said Smith was talking over the Wilson matter with some of his lieutenants, and was to meet him again in a few days.

At this meeting, Harvey later told him, the understanding was reached that Smith should "go on and nominate Wilson if he could," and should withdraw his own candidacy for the United States Senate if necessary, and that Harvey should get some expression from Wilson, for the guidance of Smith and his lieutenants.

When Harvey put the matter to Wilson, the writer relates, Wilson said that, if the nomination for Governor should come to him unsought, he would consider it his duty to "give the matter very serious consideration."

This was satisfactory to Smith, at that time. But on Harvey's return from a European journey, in June, Smith pressed him for an immediate conference and for definite information as to Wilson's attitude.

It had by this time become clear to Smith, and to others, that the Democrats would have a good chance to carry New Jersey, and other candidates were demanding Smith's support.

It had by this time become clear to Smith, and to others, that the Democrats would have a good chance to carry New Jersey, and other candidates were demanding Smith's support.

Harvey arranged a meeting at his home in Deal, N. J., for the next Sunday, June 25, 1910. Col. Henry Watterston, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, whose support Col. Harvey desired, and who happened to be in New York at that time, was invited to attend.

The writer attaches great importance to this conference at Deal, holding that without it Wilson would not have become Governor, and therefore would not have been President. Wilson wired from Lyme, Conn., the evening before, that he could not come, as there was no train which would get him to Deal in time.

Inglis relates that Wilson evolved a plan for going after Wilson by automobile and getting him to a train which would make the needed connection, and that Col. Harvey commissioned him to go, adding, "If you don't fetch him—don't come back. Don't send any word. Go and commit hara-kiri!"

Wilson Was Willing.

He tells in detail how he did "fetch" Wilson, in spite of the breaking of a ball in the bearing of one of the automobile wheels. The chauffeur "just happened" to have another ball in his pocket, which fitted a circumstance which Inglis plainly considers providential. He says he had prepared a lengthy argument to prevail on Wilson to accompany him, but that when Wilson came to the door, with a hymn book in his hand, he had only to state his errand, when the reply came, "Oh, I'll have to put some things in a bag. Excuse me."

The Deal conference, the writer says, practically settled the matter of the nomination for the governorship. The story of "how Mr. Wilson was made Governor" he reserves for a second chapter, but he goes ahead of his story far enough to tell of the conversation of Josephus Daniels to the Wilson cause.

Went to See Daniels.

Early in 1911, he relates, Col. Harvey was a guest at Clarence Mackay's shooting lodge in North Carolina, and remarked to another guest, "There ought to be some way to turn a trick for Wil-

Used Resinol for Bad Skin Trouble

Considers Her Cure Remarkable

June 25—"For almost six months I suffered from a severe case of skin trouble on my leg between the ankle and knee. It began by swelling, with severe pains day and night, followed by constant itching. My leg then became inflamed, and later water blisters and pimply sores broke out on it. At this time my leg was at least one-third above its normal size, and the continual itching and burning sensation was something terrible. I applied many remedies, but gained no relief until I commenced using Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, from which I obtained relief from the first application. After a continued use of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap the swelling was reduced, the itching and burning were entirely relieved and a complete cure was effected, having used only three jars of Resinol Ointment and two cakes of Resinol Soap. My trouble was serious, and I consider the cure remarkable." (Signed) Mrs. H. W. Neefus, 825 Pearson St., Greensboro, N. C.

HICKEL COMMISSION CO.

Mails 4241, Office 4247 1016 N. Broadway Central 1295

FREE MILK SUPPLY FOR POOR BABIES STILL NECESSARY

$1200 Needed by Post-Dispatch Fund to Continue Work Two Months.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Previously acknowledged... $3800 20

Not before the latter part of November, at the earliest, will there be an appreciable decrease in the call upon the St. Louis Pure Milk Commission for the diet it provides for all infants, and the demand at present, as it has been well nigh all the past season, is heavy and urgent.

About one-fourth of all the milk distributed by the Pure Milk Commission is absolutely free. Wherever there is need for the diet and no means of payment by the parents or guardians of the babies, the milk is provided cheerfully and promptly. Where part payment is practicable they are accepted, and in other cases full prices are collected for the milk. The number of deliveries on the free basis at this time, according to Secretary Mortland of the commission, closely approaches 400, and the estimated cost of this urgent service is $1 a week for each client.

The commission, which has limited fixed resources in the form of annual subscriptions from men and women who realize the vital need of the institution of the baby life of the community is to be safeguarded, has been under heavy additional expense the last summer because of the milk wagon drivers' strike. While there were established a number of special stations where pure milk could be obtained, scores of cases where need for the milk was imperative were more or less remote from stations. Ordinarily these cases are served through a dairy company, but this was impracticable since the strike began and the commission made special arrangements to get the milk to the infants promptly in order that there might be no added risk to their lives or health.

The Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund has for years been able to substantially reinforce the commission's resources as well as to supply hundreds of destitute families in which there were infants with free ice during the heated term. The latter demand has been fully taken care of this season and no further expense in that line is necessary. Between the demand for free ice and payments of Milk Commission bills there is virtually no balance remaining of the Milk and Ice Fund of less than $4000. It is for the further aid of the Milk Commission in its task of furnishing a diet of vital consequence to hundreds of babies, on a wholly free basis, that the additional $1200 is asked for the fund. That would raise it to $5000 and enable the commission to carry forward its extensive program of relief without interruption. The children have been the chief beneficiaries in accumulating the fund to date and the balance urgently needed is but a trifling sum to ask of the adult population. The September bill of the commission amounts to $495.96.

OCT. 28 TO BE WILSON DAY

President to Give Out an Address on "Americanism."

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—"Woodrow Wilson Day" will be observed throughout the United States on Saturday, Oct. 21, according to an announcement made yesterday by Chairman McCormick of the Democratic National Committee. On that day the President will address to the people of the country a message on "Americanism."

"It is the plan," Chairman McCormick said, "to hold meetings all over the country, at which the message from the President will be read."

OPPOSED TO APARTMENT HOUSE

West End Property Owners Fight Erection of $150,000 Building.

Nine property owners yesterday filed suit to enjoin Herman Hess from erecting a $150,000 apartment house on ground owned by him on the north side of Maple avenue between Clara and Belt avenues. Their attorney, S. T. G. Smith, said that building restrictions contained in the title deeds to the ground prohibit such structures as an apartment house. This was for the purpose of keeping the neighborhood an exclusive residence district, and the plaintiffs built houses in the tract because of such inducement, they say.

DINNER GIVEN FOR DR. SATO

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 4.—Dr. Almaro Sato, the newly arrived Ambassador from Japan to the United States, was guest of honor at a dinner given last night by Judge Thomas Burke, president of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce. The guests included business men and steamship officials whose interests touch Japan.

Dr. Sato said:

"The message which I bring from the people of Japan to the people of the United States is nothing but the assurance of friendship and good will, and I know the latter people will reciprocate them in full measure."

MAYOR DECLARES HALF HOLIDAY FOR FAIR TOMORROW

B. M. L. Also Requests Business Houses to Close for the Afternoon.

PRIZES ARE AWARDED

Indiana Exhibitors Win First Four Ribbons for Corn—Missouri Has Best Apples.

Tomorrow will be St. Louis day at the St. Louis Agricultural Fair, which is being held all this week at Maxwelton Park, on the St. Charles road.
Mayor Kiel has issued a proclamation declaring a half holiday in the afternoon and the Business Men's League has requested all business houses to allow a half holiday to employees.
The events tomorrow start at 9 a. m.
with judging of Ayreshire cattle in front of the grand stand, judging of agricultural exhibits in the agricultural tent, and the opening of the "Zone of Joy," where there are characteristic carnival attractions. There will be a band concert, starting at 10 o'clock, and judging of champion classes in all livestock.
During the morning there will be tractor and machinery demonstrations. The afternoon program will begin at 1 o'clock, with the horse show events in front of the grand stand. There also will be five horse races, and two special exhibitions of high school mares, "Belle Beach" and "Babe McDonald."

Cattle Prizes Awarded.
The principal events this morning were the milking of cows by machinery, judging Guernsey dairy cattle, judging Yorkshire swine, judging harness horses, and tractor demonstrations. The afternoon program included a saddle horse show in front of the grand stand, running races, a special exhibition of the high-school mare, "Belle Beach," milk testing and a lecture on dairy practices, tractor demonstrations, hurdle jumping and the agricultural pageant.

Another automobile parade, of 1917 models, was held today through downtown streets and then out Washington boulevard, King's highway and Easton avenue to the fairgrounds.

Roy Clore of Franklin, Ind., won the first prize, $100, in the corn exhibits.
Second, third and fourth prizes also went to Indiana exhibitors, and fifth prize to H. G. Windsor of Boonville, Mo.

Mrs. W. G. Curd of Saverton, Mo., who won many first prizes for apples at the World's Fair at San Francisco and the recent State Fair at Sedalia, has won nine first prizes, five second and three third prizes at the St. Louis Fair.

B. F. Davidson of Menlo, Io., won first prize for white Yorkshire swine.
His prize sow is "Deer Creek Martha," weight 80 pounds, and a five-year-old champion. Clayton Messenger of Kiewit, Io., exhibiting 22 Hampshire swine, the largest weighing 700 pounds, won the first prize for that class.

Girls in Hurdle Jumping.
One of the most interesting events yesterday was the hurdle jumping in front of the grand stand. Miss Ruth Sams took first prize and Miss Paula Foster second. They are riding-school pupils.
Harness and running races, sheep and swine judging and the daily "agricultural pageant" were the principal events of the day.

One of the special features for Friday afternoon will be the "automobile fashion show," in which 57 women will ride in 1917 models.

Automobile races on Saturday and Sunday will close the fair. A free-for-all race for Ford automobiles will be held Saturday afternoon. Eight professional drivers, it was announced, had entered high-powered machines for Sunday's races.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 4.—Lieut.
Sir Ernest Shackleton has abandoned the idea of sailing for England this week from Buenos Aires, and instead will go to Australia to command an expedition to rescue 10 members of his party who were left with scanty provisions on the west side of the South Polar continent. These men were on land when their ship, the Aurora, was caught in the ice and carried away. They were awaiting the arrival of Lieut. Shackleton, who disembarked on the west side of the continent, but was compelled to return to his starting point.

Sir Ernest's comrades will sail for England. He will go to Valparaiso and thence to Panama, San Francisco and Australia. He expects to reach Australia Nov. 25.

Vocalion Style J-3
Price $250

The AEOLIAN-VOCALION

The Phonograph Supreme—in Tone, in a wonderful new privilege

THE colorful tones of the human voice, all the varied notes of every instrument of the full orchestra are reflected faithfully—made to live anew by this supreme phonograph. Such clarity, sweetness and perfect purity of tone never have been possible before with any instrument of the phonograph type. And this wonderful, natural tone, you may vary and shade, make to express your own music feeling through the revolutionary Vocalion expression control—the Graduola.

Your slightest pressure upon the Graduola finds instant answer in the music.
The melody ebbs and flows as you will. Its delicate shadings are the picture of your thoughts.

There is but one way to know and fully realize the supremacy of the Vocalion —you must hear it—hear the remarkable perfection of its tone. Then you must take the Graduola and discover the fascination of making music—of building new and refreshing tonal beauty with the skill of the greatest musicians as your guide.

Scores of people every day are making this personal test of the Vocalion. We invite you to come in too, and enjoy the intensified music pleasures this great new instrument affords.

Monthly Payments as Low as $5

All models of the Aeolian-Vocalion may be purchased on the most liberal terms. Vocalion prices are $35 to $350. ($35 to $75 instruments without Graduola.)

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Candidate Gordon.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Twenty thousand Democrats commend your editorial, "Hussein John Gordon," in Sunday's paper. His glaring misrepresentations makes the whole party ridiculous. For instance, he says that the State Treasury has millions in it. Everybody knows that the State cannot pay its bills to the university, normal schools, public buildings, printer, criminal costs, Confederate pensions, or anybody else for that matter, except the clerks and barnacles attached to the ship of state. Again he says that he has never had but one member of his family on the payroll when every month the fact is printed that he has his wife—who stays at home and draws down $1800 per year; his son, Morris, and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Morris Gordon. His junket to Salt Lake and outrageous expense bill paid by the taxpayers, his leading the inheritance tax law down with an army of useless collectors under the pretense of collecting said tax, whereby else for that matter, except the clerks and barnacles attached to the ship of state, he ought to be murdered and, unless he is, I, along with thousands of other Democrats, will vote the Republican ticket as a protest against such a man. A TRAVELING MAN.

What Embargo Favored.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your article in your Oct. 1 edition in regard to high prices of foodstuff read with much interest. If an embargo were placed on wheat at the sea ports for six months there would not be any high-priced wheat. If something is not done soon there will be great hardship among the people the coming winter. It is no wonder that the people are continually complaining of the increasing high cost of living. L. A. Clifton Heights Needs Postoffice.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Clifton Heights is again without a postoffice station. I understand the Postmaster will not re-establish the station. If this is true it appears to be an unjust discrimination against the Heights and the matter should be brought to the attention of the proper postal authorities by the residents of Clifton Heights. We pay taxes to our Government and are entitled to all postal accommodations and conveniences just as other communities are.

If we want a stamp or money order, mail or register a package, we must spend 10 cents car fare and 40 minutes time to go to the nearest station at Grand and Arsenal. Is this postoffice efficiency?

A clerk in charge of a station is paid $109 a year, I am told by an ex-clerk, who says it is entirely too little for the amount of labor. I believe him. Why does our Government expect something for nothing?

Pay a reasonable amount for this service, Mr. Postmaster, and give us a real postoffice station. We demand it. CLIFTON HEIGHTS.

Humor in Labor Circles.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A keen sense of the ridiculous seems to be denied, very largely, to the sons of men. And where more strikingly than in the labor problem. These petty distinctions between skilled and unskilled labor strike the funny bone of any rational being. If any fool can do common labor, let some of these bright ones go to it, and make us wiser. Women at Washington University.

If some of the greatest universities here in the United States do not recognize the right and advantage in admitting women to the medical department, allow her to complete the course, grant honors earned, and degree M. D., why? What does our liberal, enormously endowed, our very own Washington University deny any woman (no matter how brilliant a student) admission to medical department, as candidate for degree M. D. I understand a woman may in an unobtrusive, unobtrusive way, be permitted to join classes by special favor of individual professors of medical faculty, but she is given to understand she will receive no honors, no credits, and no degree of M. D.

I see that in Pekin, China, 43 women have been given official permission to practice medicine. Are the men physicians here in St. Louis, afraid of losing their practice, prestige and power? I would appreciate any enlightenment on this condition of affairs.

A STUDENT GOING TO ANN ARBOR TO MEDICAL DEPARTMENT, MICHIGAN M.

WHO WILL CONTROL HUGHES?

At the Union League Club reception to Mr. Hughes, Col. Roosevelt, denouncing Mr. Wilson's foreign policy, remarked that there would be no debate in the German Reichstag as to the resumption of submarine warfare "if they (the Germans) knew that they had as President of the United States a man who would not tolerate any kind of action of that sort."

Mr. Wilson did not tolerate unlawful submarine attacks on American vessels or merchant vessels with Americans on board. He made such a strong case in defense of neutral rights under international law that the German Government acknowledged them and ceased unlawful attacks. Neutral rights and international law were upheld by Mr. Wilson through diplomatic means without war.

What evidence is there that Mr. Hughes will not tolerate them unless Mr. Roosevelt controls Mr. Hughes' conduct? Mr. Hughes is the chosen candidate of the leaders of the German-American Alliance. He has the support of all the men who are fighting for the German cause in America and of practically all the German language newspapers. These men and these German organs are trying to defeat President Wilson because he did not accept German policies and submit to German dictation; because he did not place an embargo on the shipment of war munitions to the allies in violation of international law, and did not let the German submarine warfare be conducted regardless of American rights and international law. Unless Mr. Hughes is grossly deceiving his German supporters, he will do precisely what Mr. Roosevelt says he will not do—he will tolerate any kind of German submarine warfare and will submit to the dictation of the German Government.

The weapon to be used to bring Mr. Hughes to terms is the fear of defeat for a second term through German votes. The New Yorker Herald frankly declares this. It says that even if Mr. Hughes should wish to take into office pro-British, anti-German advisers, the defeat of Wilson will prove that he cannot ignore with impunity the German-American vote. It depends on "German blows" in American politics to bring Mr. Hughes to terms. It quotes with hearty approval a German correspondent who says: "In case the German-Americans give Mr. Wilson a sharp lesson in the election, his successor, Hughes, in order not to spoil the prospects of a second term, will take this well to heart and will not feel that obligation to tread on the German-American corns too much as Mr. Wilson."

The German-American vote is to hold the balance of power for the control of the foreign policies of the United States for the benefit of Germany. Mr. Wilson is to be defeated because he did not submit to German dictation, regardless of American rights, and his defeat will be a warning of a similar fate for his successor elected by German votes. Of course, if Mr. Hughes defies this call and follows the advice of Roosevelt, Bacon, Lodge, et al, there will be war with Germany. But the German-American leaders have such faith in the political cowardice of Mr. Hughes that they are willing to take the risk.

How does this German program for the control of American politics appeal to American voters?

MR. SCHWAB ON WAR ORDERS.

Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel Co. says it is a mistake to assume that war orders make up the major portion of the present amazing volume of business or that they call for manufacturing on a scale far outside of the usual run of peace-time trade.

He also says that the "readjustments at the close of the war," about which we are hearing so much, need give no cause for apprehension. He thinks that the beginning of the end of the war will be very obvious. The coming of peace may be foreshadowed during a period as long as six months. The war as a factor in prosperity will show its decline on a descending scale that will impose no serious spook to business. "Provided the business of the nation and the business of the individual are managed on sound, forehanded, economic lines," he says, "we should be able not only to keep all that we have, but to get more."

Mr. Schwab confesses that he is an optimist, but then he is not trying to get an office with the benighted of the nation's sound, forehanded, economic policies of the past as his only aid. Mr. Schwab is not a 100 per cent candidate. As a mere industrial leader he has given an interpretation of his time that undoubtedly thousands of Republican business men accept and will make a guide of their action at the polls, but Wall Street, big business, generally, is not going to be fooled. They prefer the interpretations of Mr. Hughes.

AUTO FETTER'S NEW PHASES.

Twelve persons were injured, five seriously, in two West End automobile accidents early Tuesday morning. In one accident, two cars collided at a street intersection. In the other, a car skidded, struck a curb and rolled over three times. The momentum evidenced by all three cars indicated high speed.

It is a matter of common observation that reckless driving has relatively diminished. The perfecting of types of cars that will "throttle down" to lower speeds on steep streets or congested streets may have contributed to this in part. The warning of a long series of accidents in which the careless have come to grief has not been lost on car owners.

The joyrider still exists, however, in too great numbers and along with him has come another class of drivers who, without intending it, make themselves almost as great a menace. The license figures show that thousands of new cars have been added in recent months to those used in St. Louis city and county. Many of them are owned by persons who attempt to drive them either without the any careful, long-continued instruction in the guidance and control of a high-powered vehicle or without profiting by such instruction. In figuring on "what the other fellow is going to do," they are a baffling problem.

The peril of the reckless or unskilled driver is now perhaps not so great to pedestrians as he is to drivers of other cars, who are themselves cautious and at all times on the lookout to avoid accident. The season of the year is coming when skidding has its most victims. Moderate speeds and careful control will yield dividends in immunity from personal injury and property damage. And the driver who follows the studiously enjoined axiom of competent instructors, always to slow down when approaching street corners, will make the fewest demands under his insurance policies.

WHAT CHANGE WOULD MEAN.

In his speech to young Democrats, President Wilson emphasized the point made by Mr. Olney that the defeat of the Democratic party in the national election would mean radical changes in our international policies and would menace this country with war. Mr. Hughes' wholesale criticism of the Wilson administration's record, with the forces back of him, would impel him to undo much that the administration has done—would impel him to make changes of policy in foreign affairs and changes of legislation in domestic affairs.

What changes could there be without a complete transformation of the situation? Changes in foreign policy with regard to either Europe or Mexico would invite war with its immeasurable possibilities of disaster. Changes in domestic policies along the lines Mr. Hughes and his supporters advocate would mean reaction. The issues, therefore, may be defined as:

Peace or war.
Progress or reaction.
General or class welfare.

The line of cleavage of the forces now gathering on each side runs through these issues. The Wilson administration has given us honorable peace, progressive legislation and general prosperity. Do the people want to change these conditions?

Who would have thought of the gentle, lovable fast as almost advocating war with Germany and trying to excuse the branded assassin, Huerta? Was politics ever quite so queer?

HIGH TAXES AS A DISTINCTION.

The claim that Missouri has a lower tax rate than any other state is disputed by Kansas, which shows that property there pays a maximum of 13 cents a hundred, while here it pays 15 cents.

But of course the rate of taxation affords only a slight clue to the actual burden which property is made to bear. That depends on the principle in accordance with which property is assessed. We are told that in Kansas, while there are eccentricities here and there in the assessment of farm property, the general aim is to value possessions for taxation purposes at their actual cash value and that the aim is attained with a tolerable degree of success.

But we know that in Missouri there is no such general aim. Outside of three or four of the larger towns and counties, the aim seems to be to make assessments that will be remote as possible from actual cash value. Tax eccentricities are magnified into tax abuses. Fifteen per cent of value is the standard in many sections.

Taxation is probably lower in Missouri than in Kansas or any other state, but it is no particular credit to us. It is not due to skilled budget-making or business-like conduct of public affairs or any conspicuous effort for economy, as anybody can testify who has observed the policies of the Statehouse ring during the last four years. Gradual improvement in the systems of other states has left us with about the most confused, archaic and ineffective tax systems revealed in a comparative view.

Taxes are small because revenue-raising is so administered that not enough is obtained for the legitimate needs of an up-to-date, progressive commonwealth. Provided the proceeds were judiciously expended, it would be a distinction to boast of for a few years if Missouri had the highest taxation of any state in the Middle West. It would mean that the State was fulfilling its functions and utilizing long neglected opportunities for benefit to its people.

St. Louis' 2000 lawyers should never cease to work for the removal of the judiciary from politics. Nowhere is good service more necessary than in our courts.

THE SIN OF UGLINESS.

Paint up, girls. It's all right. The Rev. Dr. Philip Cone Fletcher, who used to preach in St. Louis, and who, in sanction of the biblical injunction that it is not good for man to be alone, opened courtship parlors at Centenary Church, is going around the country now telling the daughters of Eve that they have a right to paint and powder if paint and powder are needed to make them more beautiful.

Ugliness, he says, is a sin, when there is plenty of paint and powder to convert ugliness into comeliness. Since most ugly women were born that way, ugliness, it would seem, is original sin, for which there is condemnation if persisted in, and redemption through repentance and salvation through the diligent use of the paint brush and powder puff.

We are with the Reverend in his cosmetic crusade, but there seem to be some theological difficulties. The woman who was born with the original sin of ugliness and stays ugly but covers it up with calamine would seem to have been purged from the sin of ugliness only on the outside.

And what does the man mean when he says the women ought to be more frank about their use of paint and powder? Does he mean that they should paint and powder so unskillfully that everybody would know they were trying to cover up the sin of ugliness? If so, he is asking too much. The end aim of painting is to make the beholder believe that the painted one was born that way, without the original sin of ugliness. If paint is to be so applied as to proclaim itself and confess the ugliness it hides, then is painting vain, and the last state of the painted person is worse than the first.

OCTOBER.

OCTOBER was the eighth month of the Romans, and gets its name from the Latin octo (eight). Caesar shifted it to its present place in the calendar on the ground that such a popular sport as applebobbing ought to have the advantage of apples without worms in them. He provoked a characteristic Roman debate on the subject, and outwitted his opponents by passing around early apples in the Senate while the argument was on. This stratagem, which easily gained the victory, so infuriated Brutus and other applegrowers that they laid for him outside the hall and cut out his Adam's apple.

It is in October that we have the Indian Summer, said by someone to be the only good thing the Indians gave us. It is so-called from the fact that in early days, when the country was sparsely settled, the Indians made a practice of raiding the white settlements just before Winter. Raising nothing of their own, they looked with covetous eyes upon the tobacco of the paleface, his apples, pumpkins, corn and potatoes. The white people knew the Indians would appear at this time, and they therefore called it the Indian Summer. In years when there were no crops, the whites all got inside the blockhouse and had a good laugh at the Indians. This sometimes made the Indians so mad that they attacked anyway; but their sense of humor was pretty lively, and they usually joined in the laugh on themselves and went away saying that Wilson or somebody of that sort was to blame.

The festive fall will sniff the cold
And deftly burrow in the stack;
The hickories will turn to gold
And greet the wild geese coming back.
The janitor will raise a smoke
Without the slightest trace of heat.
The tender frigate of the oak
Will keep the wildwood full of meat.
The plumber will resume his drive
Upon the poor householder's purse.
The rousing poet will contrive
A note of sadness in his verse.
The hired man will bawl for more
And thicker blankets in his lot,
And any old thing at the store
Will cost the buyer all he's got.

There is no other season quite the same as that which looms ahead, when frost shall make the morning white and turn the sassafras to red. It matters not how shot and shell shall scream and whistle far away, there still remains to us the spell of Autumn coming when she may. For Europe misery and hate, for us the subtle charms of Fall; for Europe home made desolate, for us the quail's delicious call; for Europe battleships and gas, starvation, prisoners and dread, for us the frost-time on the grass, and all the sunniness glowing red.

We make our choice in this brief life, and this, we understand, is ours. We left that continent of strife, and ceased to man its walls and towers. We sailed away to find a place which war is not disposed to hit, and this, at least for this fall space, we sort of chose.

late is it. It may turn out we did not go quite far enough, for world is wide, but thus far Europe and her woe have not been equal to the tide. We look across the raging deep, where war and ruin have prevailed, and when we mark the ocean's sweep we bless the day on which we sailed.

But be that as it haply may,
That bluest blue haze will fill the air,
And candidates will bias away
In almost any mode of hair.
The center rush will show us how
The armored tank goes through the line;
The Hunter's Moon will help endow
The season with a charm divine.
The ladies will appear in such Absurdities as Fashion wills,
The farmer will throw in his clutch
And tool around the cider mills,
The watchful snuffragists will swarm
For President around the West,
And the speaker, pointing with alarm,
Will bust the buttons off his vest.

October will have thirty-one days, about twenty-five of them perfect. The first twenty-two will be under the influence of Libra, the Scales, the seventh sign of the zodiac. Persons born in this period are on the level, and will frankly tell you how they are going to vote next month. The last nine days of the month will be under the influence of Scorpio, the eighth sign. Persons born under this sign are doubtful allies because of their disposition to say sharp things on their own hook. Col. Roosevelt, who was born on the 27th, is a typical Scorpio.

It was on the 12th of October that Columbus sighted San Salvador. Seeing no sign of war, he went ashore in a small boat and took possession of the place in the name of the pacifists. He named it America for Americus Vesputius, the only man on his ship who did not get into some kind of a fight coming over.

The moon is more beautiful in October than at any other time of year, and is therefore not full until the 26th, when the air will be a little bluer than it is now. Halloween will come on the 31st, with Pancho Villa on the gate.

Then chill November will betide,
With all the gunners gunning,
And that grave problem to decide
Among the people running.

LOOKS LIKE FIRST DIVISION FOR HUGHES.

From the Wayne County (Fairfield, Ill.) Press.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

BEAUTY CULTURE.

MARION.—If metallo from alternated with sulphuretted water does not suffice to darken white hair, a feasible or harmless shade may be given the hair by burnt cork in the form of a cream or grease paint, or some made with vaseline, this is serviceable. Different shades of red, brown, blond and chestnut may be obtained in the same way with powdered henna leaves made into a tea and powdered indigo in solution.

CLEANSING.

R. C. L.—White fur: Rub with very hot bran or rye, heated in earthenware. Someone says: Beat out dust and sun for some time. Then drench with alcohol, down to the roots of every hair. While still wet sift into fur all kinds of talcum it will hold. If you cannot get this mix powdered starch with one-eighth as much borax. Put abundance of powder into fur and lay them out in box to dry. As soon as alcohol has evaporated cover box and leave for a day. Then dust gently, brush and shake out powder.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

JENNIE.—Stuffed peppers: Wash six sweet peppers, cut tops and remove seeds. Fill with forcemeat made from finely chopped beef, onion, and parsley, seasoned with salt and pepper. Cover tops with breadcrumbs and butter. Stand peppers in a buttered baking dish, and pour around them a cup of boiling water. Bake until tender, basting occasionally.

LAW POINTS.

R. Z.—You can be compelled to keep a signed furniture contract. ANXIOUS.—Illinois husband dying intestate without issue, widow entitled to household furniture, beds, bedding and so forth, not exceeding the value of $500; books, $200; wearing apparel and implements of industry, meats, groceries and groceries necessary for her subsistence for one year and in addition such personal property as she may choose, not exceeding the appraised value of $400; in addition, half of real and personal estate absolutely subject to husband's debts. The remainder, real and personal, would be distributed equally between intestate's father, mother, brothers and sisters and their descendants. If married couple without children own real estate share and share alike, the title being in the name of both, the survivor does not inherit full right and title to the deceased's share unless the will of the latter makes that clearly intended. If there be no will the surviving widow has a dower or one-third interest in all the husband's realty, of which he dies possessed, or a share in natural life, at the termination of which it goes to his heirs. In the event of her death their reality would go to her heirs.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Xxx.—For granitoid, strong map and water: ammonia.
W. E. B.—See room 24, old postoffice, 3d and Olive, about pensions.
L. H. C.—The city tax for schools is now as high as the law allows.
T. W. T.—Bottom of cistern should be laid with 3 courses of brick well bedded in cement mortar.
ROBERT.—Strychnine is in powder form and is white. Arsenic and strychnine do not change color on exposure to light and air.
M. S.—Privet hedge will grow from trimmings if soil is good. Plant in spring in trench, filling trench with earth and tramping down well.
O. S.—Police and court records are open to the press. There is no law denying such information for publication. Of course, there are police matters which, for obvious reasons, are withheld temporarily from the public.
ROTH.—To learn date of Brooklyn naturalization you would have to write to the court there which granted it. If your son voted the vote was illegal. He can get full information as to naturalization, free, in room 210, Custom House, 4th and Olive.

Z.—"Where we are at" is abominable. Cut out at the entirely; if you are compelled to use it, you might put it in quotation marks, and say "where we are at" or "more completely" or "more complete." When a thing is complete, how could it be more so? Still, usage and custom allow the "more." It is an idiom.

CLARENCE.—Voter may scratch electoral ticket same as any other. Half the voters of one party could be chosen and the other half in November the people of each state vote for presidential electors. Each state having as many electors as it has senators and representatives. These electors meet in their respective state capitals in February and vote for the President and Vice President. These votes are counted by Congress and the candidate receiving the highest number of votes is declared elected.

D. FOOL.—I made acquaintance of a prosperous merchant and my cousin, who told me that his father, 30 years ago, always stuck the blade of his razor in a cup of hot water before using it. One day he inquired the reason. The old gentleman replied: "No matter how carefully you may use a razor, it will always show a multitude of finest particles of steel adhering thereto. These particles interfere with the process of shaving. In order to counteract this effect, I have the blade in hot water. The result is a clean, smooth edge, the atomic particles disappearing as it were." He then asked my acquaintance to examine the blade of a so-called sharp razor with a microscope. There was a revelation. Victor Smith in New York Press.

IGNORANT.—If you pick up a letter from your morning paper, you know how the stamp in the corner has been crumpled with long pen strokes which will further ruin it if possible. There is also a postmark telling when the letter was mailed. This is done in the postoffice with the Norton canceling machine, invented by Marshall P. Norton and patented by him as early as 1852. And it is a sign of sinister associations to get at least one person, a little old lady who was and waits in a little New York apartment for the Government to come and give her recognition which was denied to her husband. To her it means canceled riches, canceled power, canceled hopes and the canceled life of a man who should have lived to be her protector. The only thing which remains to her is the hope that the United States Government will recognize her and do her justice. For the use of that stamp the old lady claims $100,000 as the heir of the inventor, Boston Globe.

M.—Telepathy is the influence or effect produced by one mind on another mind otherwise than through the recognized channels of the physical senses. It is generally considered that the human mind has power to influence other minds in the manner indicated, but the laws which govern its phenomena are little understood. Suggestion forms the basis of telepathic communication. Some writers have maintained that the mind in the telepathic state is incapable of inductive reasoning, the mind operating at such times by reflex action from whatever is suggested to it. According to the advocates of this theory, man is endowed with a dual mental organization. The objective mind usually dominates and takes cognizance of the world through the five physical senses. The subjective mind is operative through intuition, but only communicates and becomes marked when the objective senses are held in abeyance, as in the case of sleep or in the so-called hypnotic state. At such a time the subjective mind accepts without hesitation any suggestion made to it, and through the principle of association of ideas and new facts are introduced into it with appropriate surroundings. It is maintained that telepathy is the means of communication between two minds in the subjective state, and some go as far as to affirm that it is through two subjective minds that telepathy can be employed. The subjective mind of the hypnotist receives the message to the subjective mind of the subject. The subject, however, is under his own control, therefore a person cannot be hypnotized against his will.

A Distinctive Reason

What is the chief reason for the superiority of Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder? There are several good reasons, but there is one which distinguishes Dr. Price's from other baking powders.

This reason, which every woman should know, is that Dr. Price's Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar, which comes from grapes. This means a healthful fruit origin. It means natural food as distinguished from mineral substitutes used in other baking powders.

The One-Eyed Cat That Came Back

Love will find a way. Romance, for its medium, chooses that which is nearest at hand.

By Virginia West.

LEONARD RAYMOND was temperamentally a naturalist. Had circumstances not compelled him to make a living he would not doubt have been an Audubon or a Gray. He spent his spare moments studying the habits of the living things about town. English sparrows, pigeons, stray cats, homeless dogs, and so forth. Old man Peterkin, whose wife kept the boarding house at which Raymond was getting his meals, who did nothing but collect the board bills, grow fat and hold the position of church deacon, had told him that the crows in the cupola of the Eutaw place synagogue had been nesting there for 11 years. Raymond did not know whether to regard this as an interesting item about crows, or as evidence against Mr. Peterkin's veracity. However, Mr. Peterkin and the crows have nothing to do with this story.

In the back yard of the Linden avenue house in which he lived with his married sister Raymond raised flowers and on Sundays and holidays he would often go to the country to study the wild flowers and the birds.

One summer evening he sat in the back yard among the flowers. He was hot and lonesome, the thermometer being close to 90, the family being out of town, and no vacation for himself in sight. Tomorrow, he reflected, he would return to his post of "clerk in the bank, and hand out more money than he would ever earn in a lifetime; the day after he would do the same thing.

His melancholy reflections were broken in upon by what seemed to be a ball of fire on top of the tall board fence. An instant it disappeared, and he saw the long, black form of a cat slide down the fence and light in the yard. The beast went to a garbage can in the corner of the yard, sniffed about it, observed that the lid was on, and then, turning, the gleaming ball upon Raymond, sprang up the fence and disappeared.

The same thing happened the next evening. On the third evening when the cat appeared Raymond advanced cautiously and tried to be friendly. The cat hesitated, but when the man's hand was almost on him he streaked up and over the fence.

THE following evening when Raymond walked uptown from the bank, as he approached Richmond market he thought of the cat, and stopping at a stall bought a small portion of meat.

The meat was put on the ground near the fence on which at the regular time the cat appeared. The eye gleamed. Raymond was wondering why both eyes did not gleam when the cat seemed to fall straight down upon the meat. Raymond sat as still as a stone and heard the meat crunching between the cat's jaws. The animal was licking its chops when he advanced—it met him half way, and while Raymond rubbed his fur the cat purred. Sitting down upon a bench the cat leaped into his lap, curled up and settled down for a nap. Then it was that he found about the cat's neck a small chain with a tag on it.

When he went into the house the cat followed him, and by the gas light he read on the tag a Madison avenue address. Also he observed that the cat had but one eye, and forthwith he christened him Cyclops. He wondered why a person who thought enough of the cat to provide him with a chain and tag should have left him to search for his victuals in alleys and back yards like an ordinary stray.

Cyclops stuck by Raymond like a twin brother. And every evening when Raymond came from business he stopped in Richmond market and bought meat for Cyclops. One day the man in the stall asked him if he were a family man.

One Sunday morning Raymond strolled across Eutaw place and up to the Madison avenue address. The house was closed for the summer, but the policeman on the post told him who lived there.

Summer was nearly at an end when Raymond happened to see in the paper that the people at the Madison avenue house had returned to town. Now, Raymond was an honest man—had he been anything else he would not have been allowed to handle the bank's money—so on Saturday evening, with Cyclops under his arm, he sadly went up Madison avenue to return the cat to his lawful owner. Boys on the street made personal remarks about the man and the cat, and Cyclops' great eye turned green with wrath as he glared at them.

A colored woman of the mammy type answered his ring. She looked and gasped. Before Raymond could explain she thrust her head into the hall and shouted in strident tones:

"Come heah, Miss 'Liza! Bress de Lawd ef heah ain't yo' cat!"

In a moment appeared the prettiest girl that Raymond's eyes had ever rested upon. She had blue eyes and a mass of golden hair. Though comparatively young and quite in the eligible class, Raymond was not a lady's man. With much embarrassment he told the history of the cat.

WHILE she held Cyclops to her bosom the girl explained that she had left him with a friend to keep for her during the summer and he had run away. She had given him up for lost.

"Dat cat know what he doin'," snickered the mammy, who was standing back in the hall. "Dat cat kin doo futhern you kin ef he aint got but one eye."

Raymond went off catless. All the way home he was thinking of a way by which he might call on the beautiful Miss Liza. Sunday afternoon he went out to the country, to the woods, the flowers, the birds and his mind of thoughts of the girl.

That evening old Cyclops was back on the fence! His great eye had a gleam of mischief. Down the fence he slid, and straight to Raymond, who decided that he must take the cat back to his owner immediately.

While Cyclops prowled about the parlor with tail erect, rubbing against every article of furniture, Raymond talked to Miss Liza. "I don't see but one way to keep our cat in one place!"

Every morning Cyclops returned to Raymond, and every evening he as promptly took him home. Thus time passed from autumn into early winter.

One evening sitting before the little wood fire in her parlor, Raymond said to Miss Liza: "I don't see but one way to keep our cat in one place!" Then Miss Liza blushed and said she didn't see but one way, either. Then he kissed her! And old Cyclops rubbed against both of them and purred to beat the band. (Copyright by Life Publishing Co.)

When Cooking Oysters.
NEVER salt for soups or stews until just before removing from fire. Escalloped oysters keep their flavor better if covered while cooking.

Half the liquor or hot milk may be poured over escalloped oysters when half baked.

In frying oysters a little baking powder added to the cracker crumbs will greatly improve them.

It is always better to handle oysters with a fork, as contact with the hands tends to make them tough.

Relieves a Serious Case of Chronic Constipation

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Corrects Condition That Seemed Hopeless.

Miss H.A. Frees

After suffering from chronic constipation until she was so run down she was unable to do any kind of work Miss H. A. Frees, 209 Adams St., Dayton, Ohio obtained a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and used it with such gratifying results that she continued the treatment and has written to Dr. Caldwell that her condition is again normal and that she wants to recommend Syrup Pepsin to everyone who suffers with constipation.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, gentle in its action and free from gripping or other pain or discomfort. It contains no opiate or narcotic drug and, while acting readily on the most stubborn case of inactive bowels, is as palatable as the finest baby food, so that it is the ideal family laxative and should be kept on hand in every household for use when needed.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin costs only fifty cents a bottle and is sold

"T. R. RUNNING AWAY WITH PARTY WAGON AND HUGHES SITS HELPLESS"

So Declares Senator Reed on Missouri Campaign —Excerpts From His Speeches Include Assertion That Candidate Apes Rough Rider's Talk.

The following are excerpts from speeches which Senator Reed is making in Southeast Missouri towns this week:
"The Republican party is becoming the 'war party' of the country. Roosevelt has taken the bit in his teeth and is running away. He is dragging after him the party wagon. Hughes sits in the front seat dangleing the lines, as helpless as a child. He has abandoned all attempts to either guide or restrain the runaway beast.

"Roosevelt is in supreme control of the Republican party. This is because he has back of him Root, Lodge and other powerful men of the party, all of whom have repeatedly clamored for war with Germany.

"Roosevelt's speech delivered last Saturday at Battle Creek, Mich., is a battle cry.

A Demand for War.
"It is a demand for war against Germany which no rational human being can mistake. His words are not susceptible of two constructions. They either are the demand of a sincere man who believes our national honor was sacrificed when we failed to go to war, and who proposes to wipe out the stain upon our national honor by the stain of blood, or his words are the mere vapors of a demagogue who hopes to gain political advantage by arousing a war spirit with no purpose of actually bringing on a conflict with Germany.

"In the first instance, he is dangerous,
and in the last contemptible.

"Nor can the advocates of Mr. Hughes escape responsibility for Roosevelt's utterances. A plain statement of facts makes this clear.

Cites T. R.'s Articles.
More than a year ago in a series of magazine articles, Roosevelt insisted that when Germany invaded Belgium she broke her treaty with the United States, and trampled upon the supreme law of our land. He declared that no self-respecting nation would permit such an outrage to be perpetrated, and denounced President Wilson because he had not resorted to war instead of offering a sensible man knew then and knows now that the only acts which could have been more effective than the words of diplomacy were acts of war.

In February of this year Roosevelt issued a book entitled "Pearl God and Take Your Own Part," in which he repeated and emphasized the statements I have just referred to. He said, among other things:

"The Hague conventions were part of the supreme law of our land. They included a guaranty from Germany that she would not violate the territory of Belgium, and a guaranty by Belgium that if an attempt was made to violate her territory she would fight. Germany broke her solemn promise to us and offended against the supreme law of our land. Belgium kept her solemn promise.
... We shirked our duty by failing to take any action; by announcing, through the President, that we would be neutral in thought as well as in deed between the oppressor and the oppressed" (P. 26). "It is the allies who are dedicated to the cause and are fighting for the principle... that the Government of the people shall not perish from the face of the earth.
We have stood aside and not ventured to say a word, far less to take any action for the right or against the wrong."
(P. 47).

His Stand With Progressives.
Later he declared he would accept the nomination of the Progressive party unless Hughes was in agreement with him on the questions of national honor, and our foreign policies. He declared that he would not accept or reject the Progressive nomination until he had satisfied himself upon this point.

On the 27th day of June he publicly announced that he proposed to visit Hughes for the purpose of settling the important question referred to. At that time he said:

"In my judgment the nomination of Mr. Hughes meets the conditions set forth in the statement of the Progressive National Committee, issued last January, and in my own statements." "No good American, whatever his ancestry or creed, can have any feeling except scorn and detestation for those professional German-Americans who seek to make the American President in effect a Viceroy of the German Emperor.

They represent that adherence to the politico-racial hyphen which is the badge and sign of moral treason to the republic. I have heard these men out for specific denunciation and assuredly
I am certain that that candidate is incapable of being influenced by the evil intrigues of these hyphenated Americans."

Had Talk With Hughes.
On the 28th day of June, he met Mr.
Hughes at a dinner, and was in conference with him for three hours. They emerged from the conference arm in arm, and Mr. Hughes gave to the country an authorized statement in which he said:

"We talked very fully over all matters and were in complete accord."
On Aug. 2, Roosevelt said of Hughes:
"I recognize his high qualities which must recommend him to the esteem of the whole world, particularly to the sympathy of the allies." "He always translates his words into deeds."
"He certainly would never have suffered the Government of the United States to pass over without protest the violation of Belgium's neutrality by Germany. He would never write two notes on the same offense. He would perhaps issue a warning, but afterward he would act according to his conscience, and for the honor of civilization. This is what he certainly will do if... he becomes President of the United States."

On Sept. 1 Roosevelt made a speech in Maine in which he declared:
"Since 1915 we have had four years of

A SIMPLE WAY TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—ADV.

a policy which has been an oplate to the spirit of idealism. It has meant the relaxation of our moral fiber. Horror of war, combined with a sordid appeal to self-interest and to fear, has paralyzed the nation's conscience. "We have been told that even between Belgium and Germany we should be neutral, not only in acts, but in sympathy. . . . America, under the lead of Wilson, could and should have put itself at the head of all neutral nations. . . . We cannot undo what has been done, but we can repudiate what has been done. . . . As between Mr. Hughes and Wilson, who can doubt which is the man who will with austere courage stand for the nation's duty? . . . In Mr. Hughes we have a man whose public life is a guarantee that whatever he says he will make good, and that all his words will be borne out by his deeds." On the same day Hughes wired Roosevelt from St. Louis as follows:

velt from St. Louis as follows:

On the same day Hughes wired Roosevelt

Interview, referred to Roosevelt as "that stalwart American, who winks the country," in his speech that day said: "We want deeds to match words. We want a new tone in our life. I am not of the kind that is too proud to fight."

Since that date Hughes has repeatedly aped Roosevelt and has more and more adopted his vehement language. It has become so plain that all observers can see that he has been following Roosevelt's lead as faithfully as a dog follows his master.

I have hitherto called attention to these statements, but have found Republicans exceedingly reluctant to accept the conclusion that Roosevelt meant to plunge the country into war. Especially they repudiated the idea that Mr. Hughes would follow Roosevelt to that extremity.

Recalls Battle Creek Speech. But now comes Roosevelt speaking at Battle Creek, Mich., under the auspices of the National Republican Committee, and with the full sanction and authority of Mr. Hughes he delivers himself of a speech which I repeat is a bold and unqualified declaration that Wilson is to be condemned because he has not made war upon Germany coupled with a flat assurance that Mr. Hughes will reverse all of Wilson's policies. His speech is a war cry. If the people were to harken to his voice, we would be mobilizing troops within 24 hours. Listen:

"The supporters of Mr. Wilson say that the American people should vote for him because he has kept us out of war. It is worth while to remember that this is a claim that cannot be advanced either on behalf of Washington or of Lincoln. Neither Washington or Lincoln kept us out of war. Americans and the people of the world at large now reverence the memories of these two men because, and only because they put righteousness before peace."

Thus, in his appeal against Wilson's policy of peace he adopts a demagogic subterfuge by appealing in the name of Washington and Lincoln against a policy of peace. He continues: "They (Washington and Lincoln) possessed the stern valor of patriotism which bade them put duty first, not safety first; which bade them accept war rather than an unrighteous and disastrous peace."

Tories and Copperheads.

"There were peace-at-any-price men in the days of Washington. They were the Tories. There were peace-at-any-price men in the days of Lincoln. They were the Copperheads. The men who now with timid hearts and quivering voices praise Mr. Wilson for having kept us out of war, are the spiritual heirs of the Tories of 1776, and the Copperheads of 1864. The men who followed Washington at Trenton and Yorktown, and who suffered with him through the winter at Valley Forge, and the men who wore the blue under Grant, and the gray under Lee, were men of valor who sacrificed everything to serve the right as it was given them to see the right. They spurned with contemptuous indignation the counsels of the feeble and cowardly folk who in their day spoke for peace-at-any-price."

If human language means anything, then this tirade of Roosevelt's is a plain indictment of President Wilson as a Tory, a Copperhead, and a traitor to the United States because he did not make war upon Germany. Of course, he claims to have almost a monopoly of courage, but he ends by denouncing the election of Hughes because Hughes will reverse the "Copperhead-Tory-traitor" policies of Wilson's.

A reversal of these policies can only be accomplished by a declaration of war.

Says T. R. Leaves No Doubt. His plain language is even made plainer on in the speech, and all possible or conceivable doubt as to its intent and purpose is removed by his catalogue of American vessels sunk by German ships; by his declaration that the German Minister should have been driven from our country, and by his castigation of Wilson for not having followed his protests by positive acts.

He concludes by declaring: "If Wilson had made good his words, if he had immediately held Germany to strict accountability, the Lusitanian and the Arabic would not have been sunk. The men and women lost their lives because President Wilson did not venture to call to account by direct challenge and resistance Imperial Germany. He did not dare to make his words good."

Blind indeed is the man who does not know that the Republican party is in charge of Theodore Roosevelt, and that it has become the war party of the United States.

IS DANDRUFF KILLING YOUR HAIR?

Mr. Hotelling Was Troubled 19 Years and Was Healed by Cuticura.

"I was troubled with dandruff for the last nineteen years. My scalp was so bad that it used to bleed and itch and burn most all the time. My hair fell out so I had to have it clipped all over, and the top of my head was all scales. It annoyed me nights so I lost sleep, and my coat collar used to be covered so with dandruff that I used to be ashamed."

"I tried everything that I heard of but nothing seemed to do me any good until I tried a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and from the first I found relief. I used three large sized cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment before I was healed." (Signed) Earl J. Hotelling, Elba, Mich., Jan. 22, 1916.

Cuticura Soap, to cleanse, purify and beautify, Cuticura Ointment to soften, soothe and heal, have been most successful in the severest forms of skin and scalp troubles, but greater still in preserving clear skins, and preventing little skin troubles becoming serious.

Why Brooklyn Won: The Giants Fell Down, and the Phils Didn't Stand Up

COGNITION NOT TO INQUIRE INTO MCGRAW CHARGES

Reflections Cast by Giants' Leader on Team's Playing Ascribed to Temper.

TENDER MINIMIZES AFFAIR

Muggsy's Outburst Puts Underscored Taint on Brooklyn Pennant Victory.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The National Baseball Commission, which meets today at the Waldorf Astoria, will not make an complete investigation into the intimation of Manager McGraw of the Giants, that his team practically "quit" in yesterday's game, permitting Brooklyn to clinch the National League championship.

McGraw cannot be found, to amplify his statement, which he made in the heat of anger in the fifth inning of the game, when he brushed aside his players, forced his way out of the "dug out" and left Ebbetts Field asserting that his players were refusing to obey signals and were "fooling around in a lousy manner."

President Tener said today that the commission would not take any cognizance of McGraw's remarks.

"McGraw was undoubtedly wrought up over the fact that his team could not keep on winning," said President Tener. "The Giants were suffering from the effects of their long series of victories. I don't doubt that McGraw said harsh things; but every friend of baseball will realize the fiery temper of the man who said them."

Jones Scores McGraw's Action.

In commenting on McGraw's remarks, President Ben Johnson of the American League characterized them as "outrageous," and said that if this situation had arisen in the American League he would have dealt with it in anything but a lenient manner.

Gerry Herrmann, a member of the commission, was reticent regarding the affair. "This is the first I had heard of the incident," he said. "I thought it was a joke. Now I believe it was a fool act."

Doubt as to the authenticity of the statement credited to McGraw reflecting on his players, was expressed by John B. Foster, secretary of the Giants, who declared he did not hear the remarks made, but that he had no doubt McGraw said all he was quoted as saying—and more.

"He was mad as a horn," Foster said, "and felt that his team had thrown him down. McGraw was sore, he was not the only one who was sore."

"Anybody would be mad if a team like the Giants went out and refused to play baseball," McGraw was further quoted as saying he did not propose to lead the Giants again this year.

McGraw left his players flat to their fate, yesterday, at the conclusion of the fifth inning, alleging that they were not trying to beat Brooklyn and that he "refused to be associated with such conduct." Brooklyn won the game, 5-6, and also won the National League pennant, as Philadelphia was twice beaten by Boston, 4-3 and 3-2.

The Giants, who recently won 26 straight games, played listlessly against the new titleholders. There had been rumors that McGraw's men were not "trying" and the breath of scandal was blown from one end of Manhattan to the other.

Giants Refused to Hustle.

Lew McCarty, a member of the New York team, is one of the players to share in the world's series medal that will be placed and divided by Brooklyn players. However, he didn't play yesterday. But his teammates performed in a way that Manager McGraw did not charge that his players "quit" yesterday, but he was highly incensed at the looseness of the play and losing patience made a move which indirectly reflected on his players and worse yet on the honesty of baseball. In leaving the grounds he made this statement:

"I simply won't stand for the kind of baseball that was played. I do not believe that any of my players deliberately favored Brooklyn, but they simply refused to obey my orders and fooled about in a listless manner."

"When Perrett wound up with a man on first base, allowing the runner to steal second, I lost my patience and left the bench to have worked too hard this year to stand around and watch playing like that, and I refuse to be connected with it."

The Giants played loose baseball, but the Robins played even more poorly in the field, and was plain that the men of both teams were affected by the strain of the long struggle.

The Robins won because they hit the ball more freely and more savagely and because the New York pitchers plainly were suffering from the reaction due to the strain of setting a new major league record by winning 16 games in a row.

Big Day for Pessimists.

The charge so freely made by pessimists that the Giants were not trying to beat the Robins is considered unfair to the players of the New York team as it was absurd. At that time I felt like quitting the bench myself.

McGraw's assertions are very un-sportsmanlike. He knows very well the Robins are superior to the New York team and have defeated them in a majority of the games this season, and when they came here Monday they encountered the best team in the League. It was only natural the best team should win. The New Yorks did play and baseball yesterday, but they were out of a long winning streak that Boston crushed Saturday and they had lost the stamina to win."

PENNY ANTE: Ladies' Night

RECORDS OF BROOKLYN PITCHERS SHADE SOX

On Basis of Earned-Run Efficiency, National Leaguers Have Slight Advantage, Figures Show.

If the records of the pitchers for the Superbas and Red Sox during the regular campaign are taken as a criterion, then the National League flingers have a little something on those for the A. L.

The latest averages show that Marquard, Cheney, Pfeffer, Smith and Coombs, the Superba regulars, have allowed an average of 2.07 earned runs per battle, against 2.43 for the Red Sox twirlers.

But then the fact that the American League is generally conceded as being the stronger, must be taken into consideration. On this basis, the two staffs on figures are almost equal in strength, but for individual stars the Red Sox staff is ranked as one of the best in the majors today.

"Anybody would be mad if a team like the Giants went out and refused to play baseball," McGraw was further quoted as saying he did not propose to lead the Giants again this year.

The poor work of George Foster, the hero of the 1915 world's series, who has not pitched near his 1915 form, has put a big crimp in the Red Sox figures. Foster last season allowed an average of 2.12 earned runs per battle, while this year it is 3.07, and Foster has pitched only 279 innings, against 285 in 1915.

The great twirling of three comebacks, Marquard, Cheney and Coombs, has helped the Superbas. Marquard has yielded 1.77 earned markers per battle, Cheney 1.84 and Coombs 2.33.

"Babe" Ruth, the bulky southpaw, has proved the star of the mound men on Carrigan's club. He has won 20 games, lost 12 and yielded 67 earned runs in 222 innings, an average of 2.61 per contest. The figure gives him a good lead on all his mates.

How Pitchers Compare.

Red Sox. The Superba hurles have had 1022 innings and allowed 235 runs those for the Red Sox 311 markers frames. Following are the figures.

Much of the credit for originating these methods must go to George A. Barker, a former great Pittsburg University elevator. At an early time, not many years ago, Barker, a very able alert, intelligent player could carry them out to the nice degree to which the rekins develop today.

It is announced that a Carlisle team will take part in a professional exhibition this fall. But no eleven will represent the school in the University field. The team will still, however, be represented by the Haskell Indians of Kansas.

As near as we can get it, a money-player in a third world war, with Larry Lejko betting his best, can come in on the grass at third base without once wondering what will become of his wife and children.

The money player is the guy who can catch a spring arm in his web, and can place the deciding play of the game, without remembering that he will hang a Packard automobile if he hobbles it.

These kind are few. Most of us are apt to get back ache, fatigue, and the foundations and the population of the pumping station whenever a two-spot hangs on the result.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Among the Missing.

ONE of the greatest factors in football history is among the missing this year. This is the Carlisle Indian School, which was responsible for the development of many marvels in the gridiron world, and for the introduction of certain football methods which amazed and baffled opponents.

The Fathers at Washington have decided that Lo the poor Indian was advancing the cause of civilization very little by playing football. This year the game, as an intercollegiate sport, was abolished by them.

In football Mr. Lo found a game which gratified his wild and care-free disposition to ramble at will up and down the frame of his opponent. He proved a game, resourceful adversary and some of the most interesting battles in football history are those in which the redskins took part.

Thorpe the Greatest Indian.

CARLISLE brought out among other famous stars, the Houser brothers, the mighty James Thorpe, unquestionably the greatest football star and all-around athlete of his day. Pleasant, another combination gridiron and track and field champion, and host of others. It was these Indians who first tricked the enemy by having one runner tuck his head under his arm and dash around end as if he had the ball, pulling the enemy after him, while the man with the leather slipped through an opening in the line for a big gain.

It was also a redskin who fooled the crimson even, slipping the ball up under the back of his jersey, a touchdown resulting.

It was an aborigine who introduced the block method, throwing oneself at the legs of the opposition, to break up the play—a method which is in general use now, and is known as "fending" today.

It was a native who made the most of the short or basket ball past, instances of Carlisle ingenuity might be multiplied.

Much of the credit for originating these methods must go to Glenn Warner, now coach of the great Pittsburgh University eleven. At the same time, none but able, alert, intelligent players could lead on to the nice degree to which the redskins developed them.

It is announced that a Carlisle team will take part in a professional game this fall. But no eleven will represent the school in the university field. The redman will still, however, be represented by the Haskell Indians of Kansas.

What's a Money Player.

WE learn from ticker fans that the Boston Red Sox are going to win the world's championship because they are the better "money players."

We also learn that the Browns failed to land higher than they did because they were POOR "money players."

As near as we can get it, a money-player is a daredevil who, with Larry Lajole batting his best, can come in on the grass at third base without once wondering what will become of his wife and children.

The money player is the guy who can face a whirlwind smash in what is perhaps the deciding play of the game, without remembering that he will be out a Packard automobile if he bobbles it.

These kind are few. Most of us are apt to get buck eyed, frightened of the foundations and palpitation of the pumping station whenever a two-spot hangs on the result.

O'DONNELL AND WYNN JOIN BILLIKEN TEAM

Coach Painter Now Has Squad Recruited Up to Full War Strength.

St. Louis University's football squad was augmented last night by the addition of three men who are expected to make the varsity team. O'Donnell, the hefty tackle who comes from a family of gridiron stars, his brother being the best center Notre Dame has had in a decade, was one of the most welcomed additions to the squad, which played at full strength last season and Gallagher, a tackle, were the other two. Scherr, an end and novice, also reported.

This brings the Billiken squad up to full war strength and Coach Painter and his assistants will now begin serious work.

"O'Donnell will be groomed as a kicker, as he can boot the oval better than anybody on the squad," said the coach. "He will practice. Painter hasn't given up hope with Big Bill Joern, although the lengthy tackle has been in the may not survive the acid test. But Joern has the leg-power and is still considered a great prospect."

Oh Yes, It Can Be Done.

PERHAPS this sounds a little improbable. But it happened and here's how. Magee was with the Quakers for several seasons when each year it was thought they would win a flag. But time after time accidents interfered with their prospects.

Finally the Boston Braves, after winning the world's championship in 1914 signed Sherry Magee to carry them out to the nice lead-pipe certainty Magee would at least play with a pennant team. But just at this time Philadelphia, his old club, came to life and beat out the Braves for the flag, leaving Magee out in the cold again. This year the Braves were favorites, but see the result: Magee joined again!

On the other hand Barry has nothing but luck—no good. With the Athletics during four world's championship seasons, he was then sold to the club that won the flag twice in succession, while the team he left groveled along at the bottom of the league.

Now, Be honest. Don't you think old Dame Fortune ought to remodel her distributing methods, after looking over Magee's sad case?

MISS LAURIE KAISER STILL IN TITLE HUNT

St. Louis Girl Survives First Round of Match Play in National Tourney.

BELMONT, Mass., Oct. 4.—Miss Laurie Kaiser, the only representative of St. Louis still in the hunt for the woman's national golf title, survived the first match round yesterday, by defeating Mrs. G. W. Roope, Braeburn, 3 up and 2 to play.

Miss Kaiser was paired with Mrs. T. E. Forrest of Knollwood, in today's play. Several surprises resulted yesterday, chief among which was the defeat of Mrs. J. V. Hunt, a former champion, by Mrs. Thomas Bucknell, 2 up. Mrs. Bucknell is a comparative novice in championship play.

Today Mrs. Bucknell will face Miss Ethel Campbell of Philadelphia.

Following are the results of yesterday's play:

Miss Laurie Kaiser, Flossmore, defeated Mrs. G. W. Roope, Braeburn, 3 and 2.

Mrs. T. E. Forrest, Knollwood, defeated Mrs. J. V. Hunt, Oakley, 3 up.

Miss Mildred Caverly, Philadelphia, defeated Mrs. F. D. McCarthy, Woodland, 2 and 1.

Mrs. E. C. Letts, Cincinnati, defeated Mrs. C. F. Fowler, Oxford, 4 and 1.

Mrs. L. C. Stockton, Summerville, defeated Miss Marion Hollins, Westbrook, 2 and 1.

W. A. Gavitt, Tacoma, defeated Miss G. M. Bishop, Brookhaven, 4 and 3.

Miss F. H. C. Osgood, the Country, defeated Miss F. H. C. Osgood, the Country, 2 and 1.

Edith Chesbrough, Burlingame, defeated Mrs. W. E. Daley, Oakley, 4 and 1.

Miss Alexia Stirling, Atlanta, defeated Mrs. E. H. Baker, Jr., Belmont, 3 and 1.

Mrs. H. Q. Stetson, Huntington, defeated Mrs. J. H. Lapham, San Antonio, 3 and 1.

Sister to Marry on Oct. 21.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 4.—George Stier, the star first-sacker for the St. Louis Browns, will be married to Miss Kathleen Hohns of this city here Oct. 21. The wedding is the culmination of a romance when both were students at the University of Michigan.

Odds of 10-7 Offered by Red Sox Supporters

No Brooklyn Money in Sight to Cover Bets of Boston Fans—"Royal Rooters" Organize to Support Carrigan's Men in Games at Brooklyn—Sent Sale On.

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Distribution of reserved seat tickets for the world's series baseball games in this city between the Brooklyn Nationals and the Boston Americans, which will open on Saturday, began today. Each of the 27,000 seats available for reservation was covered by applications, officials of the local club said.

Almost immediately after the receipt by mail this morning of the notices of allotments, successful applicants appeared at the club box office at Fenway Park. Ticket distribution prior to the date of the opening game will be made from the grandstand entrances, thus obviating the crush which kept many holders of reserved seats from the games last year. These new seats will be opened at 9 o'clock on the morning of the games. Purchasers of tickets must move into the grounds at once and the gates will be closed as soon as the 15,000 rush seats are filled.

To make these arrangements at such an early date and to make possible the playing of the opening games here while the Brooklyn Park is being placed in readiness for its first world series, the Boston club has had men at work day and night for more than a week. Secretary Edwin Riley collapsed under the strain and his physician said today that he would be unable to see the team in action in the big games.

Assurance that the Red Sox will be cheered on the foreign field by organized local supporters, as the local workers in series contention have been for years, was given today by John M. Killen, leader of the Royal Rooters party, which will follow the fortunes of the team throughout the series.

The first indications that the betting odds on the series were available today with Brooklyn definitely placed as the National League pennant. Wagers were offered here at odds of 10 to 7 on Boston. As yet it was said no Brooklyn money has appeared.

Today the players who have just won the American League title became further accustomed to the lay of the land at the Braves' field. Light batting and field practice was the order set by Manager Carrigan.

Cleveland Loses Bowden.

Cleveland High School lost a dependable ballplayer when Bowden broke a bone in his shoulder during last Saturday's game. The game was played at the school and Bowden was the star. He broke the bone while early this week when he attempted to throw a ball. The injury was so severe that Bowden will be out of the game for some time. The school officials are not serious enough to keep the men out of the game for the entire season.

A SIMPLE WAY TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffier, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—ADV.

a policy which has been an opiate to the spirit of idealism. It has meant the relaxation of our moral fiber. Horror of war, combined with a sordid appeal to self-interest and to fear, has paralyzed the nation's conscience.

"We have been told that even between Belgium and Germany we should be neutral, not only in act, but in sympathy. . . . America, under the lead of Wilson, could and should have put itself at the head of all neutral nations. . . . We cannot undo what has been done. . . . As between Mr. Hughes and Wilson, who can doubt which is the man who will with austere courage stand for the nation's duty? . . . In Mr. Hughes we have a man whose public life is a guarantee that whatever he says he will make good, and that all his words will be borne out by his deeds."

On the same day Hughes wired Roosevelt from St. Louis as follows: "I heartily congratulate you on the speech at Lewiston, and warmly appreciate your effective support."

On the same day Mr. Hughes, in an interview, referred to Roosevelt as "that stalwart American, who woke the country," in his speech that day said:

"We want a new tone in our life. I am not one of the kind that is too proud to fight."

Since that date Hughes has repeatedly adopted Roosevelt and has more and more adopted his vehement language. It has become so plain that all observers can see that he has been following Roosevelt's lead as faithfully as a dog follows his master.

I have hitherto called attention to these statements, but have found Republicans exceedingly reluctant to accept the conclusion that Roosevelt meant to plunge the country into war. Especially they repudiated the idea that Mr. Hughes would follow Roosevelt to that extremity.

Recalls Battle Creek Speech.

But now comes Roosevelt speaking at Battle Creek, Mich., under the auspices of the National Republican Committee, and with the full sanction and authority of Mr. Hughes he delivers himself of a speech which I repeat is a bold and unqualified declaration that Wilson is to be condemned because he has made war upon Germany coupled with a flat assurance that Mr. Hughes will reverse all of Wilson's policies. His speech is a war cry. If the people were to harken to his voice, we would be mobilizing troops within 24 hours. Listen:

"The supporters of Mr. Wilson say that the American people should vote for him because he has kept us out of war. It is worth while to remember that this is a claim that cannot be advanced either on behalf of Washington or of Lincoln. Neither Washington or Lincoln kept us out of war. Americans and the people of the world at large now reverence the memories of these two men because, and only because they put righteousness before peace."

Thus, in his appeal against Wilson's policy of peace he adopts a demagogic subterfuge by appealing in the name of Washington and Lincoln against a policy of peace. He continues:

"They (Washington and Lincoln) possessed the stern valor of patriotism which bade them put duty first, not safety first; which bade them accept war rather than an unrighteous and disastrous peace."

Tories and Copperheads.

"There were peace-at-any-price men in the days of Washington. They were the Tories. There were peace-at-any-price men in the days of Lincoln. They were the Copperheads. The men who now with timid hearts and quivering voices praise Mr. Wilson for having kept us out of war, are the spiritual heirs of the Tories of 1776, and the Copperheads of 1864. The men who followed Washington at Trenton and Yorktown, and who suffered with him through the winter at Valley Forge, and the men who wore the blue under Grant, and the gray under Lee, were men of valor who sacrificed everything to serve the right as it was given them to see the right. They spurned with contemptuous indignation the counsels of the feeble and cowardly folk who in their day spoke for peace-at-any-price."

If human language means anything, then this tirade of Roosevelt's is a plain indictment of President Wilson as a Tory, a Copperhead, and a traitor to the United States because he did not make war upon Germany.

Of course, Roosevelt puts himself with Washington and Lincoln, and he claims to have almost a monopoly of courage, but he ends by demanding the election of Hughes because Hughes will reverse the "Copperhead-Tory-traitorous" policies of Wilson's.

A reversal of these policies can only be accomplished by a declaration of war.

Says T. R. Leaves No Doubt.

His plain language is even made plain on in the speech, and all possible or conceivable doubt as to its intent or purpose is removed by his catalogue of American vessels sunk by German ships; by his declaration that the German Minister should have been driven from our country, and by his castigation of Wilson for not having followed his protests by positive acts.

He concludes by declaring:

"If Wilson had made good his words, if he had immediately held Germany to strict accountability, the Lusitania and the Arabic would not have been sunk. The men and women lost their lives because President Wilson did not venture to call to the days of direct challenge and resistance Imperial Germany. He did not dare to make his words good."

Blind indeed is the man who does not know that the Republican party is in charge of Theodore Roosevelt, and that it has become the war party of the United States.

STEELE WILL OPPOSE DAVENPORT IN OPENER

Browns Will Be One-to-Two Favorites Over Cards in Fall Series, Starting Today.

By W. J. O'Connor.

Those who didn't go to "The Ball" last night, and anybody else who feels full of pop, are expected to report at Robinson Field this afternoon, on or before 3 o'clock, and witness the preparation of the first part of the annual "fall series."

The Browns and Cardinals go to it today, and while there's a disposition on the part of some persons to regard this series in the same light as a German does an "official British report," the fact remains that the ballplayers are battling for gold.

Only Five Games Booked.

Only five games will be played. Should the first four be halved and the fifth drawn, a sixth game may be fought next Monday. However, nine-tenths of the players already have made arrangements to leave St. Louis for their respective homes Sunday evening.

The Browns go into the series a 1-to-2 favorite, while Huggins will rely on Bob Steele, his only southpaw. Indeed, Huggins threatens to use Steele in three of the five games.

An important shift is planned in the Brown lineup. Jones has been using Gene Paulette, the hard-hitting first baseman from the Memphis club, at third base, and may start him there today. Jones realizes that he needs hitting strength.

It was the Cardinal bats that battered down the Browns in the spring series. The Browns won only one game out of six in the pre-season clash and that game was won, incidentally, by a pitcher only recently released by the Browns.

Jim Parks, now on his way to Salt Lake, went to the plate in the final battle of the spring series and beat down the National League, although he needed a little help in the ninth.

SPORT SALAD

The Revue.

THE Dodgers went over and now they're in clover. They've got the old flag in their grip.

While they were improving and pennantward moving, The Phillies continued to slip.

They walloped the Giants displaying great science.

In getting a grip on the flag, The Braves licked the Phillies and gave 'em the willies.

While Patsey is willing the race was a hummer.

The race was a hummer. They battled all summer. Continuing up into fall, The Dodgers kept plugging and with their great slugging they played some remarkable ball.

The Robins now utter sweet notes as they flutter around in the pennantville trees. No longer they're fretting for soon they'll be getting a hunk of the world's series cheese.

Charles Ebbets is smiling and keeps right on filing requests for the world's series seats.

There'll be a flag raising with stunts quite amazing and all kinds of barbecued meats.

The fans are accusing C. Ebbets of using advantages not at all fair. His views are enlarging. He figures on charging will bear.

As much as the Cardinals will bear.

Congratulations, Robby.

In clinching the National League pennant, Wilbert Robinson exploded a time-honored theory. Everybody loves a fat man in Brooklyn.

Robby is now as popular in Brooklyn as Ebbets is not. Which same is some popularity.

Johnny McGraw doesn't say that the Giants laid down, but he does hint that they didn't stand up so straight that they leaned backward.

ning from Tim McCabe. However, Park is not available.

These followers of the game who cannot generate any real interest over the outcome of the series this fall are at least making an "interest" bet on some side-show attractions. The Slater-Hornsby batting duel, for instance.

Hornsby has finished the season with an unimpaired average of .310. He's the only regular on either team in the charmed circle. Slater topped the Browns with .300, and he has plenty of backers in the coming duel with Hornsby.

The fact that Huggins has only one southpaw, Steele, to send against the enemy, gives Slater a chance to be at his best in the five games starting today. The Michigan Marvel is more effective against right-handers.

Saturday's game will be started at 1:45, and arrangements have been made to announce the results of the world's series battle at Boston, play by play. Two megaphone men will be stationed in front of the grand stand to give the patrons the plays in detail.

You wouldn't drink a new wine—or a youthful whiskey.

Captain Black of Yale

May Not Play Against

Virginia U. Saturday

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 4.—The Yale varsity football eleven was able to score only one touchdown in a 20-minute scrimmage against the scrub eleven in the bowl yesterday afternoon. The varsity had worked hard since the middle of last week, scrimmaging or playing every day except Sunday.

As Virginia was the team which started the long series of Yale defeats last year, it was decided to work this team particularly hard in the preparation for the contest Saturday.

The scrub line, however, stood firm against the varsity assault, and when finally it held on the 20-yard line, Smith, the varsity quarterback, had to resort to open style play, and on the next play Legge made a long forward pass to Gains, who took the ball over for the touchdown. Legge tried a goal after the touchdown and missed it.

In the 15 minutes that followed the varsity was unable to score again. Capt. Black was unable to score again. Capt. Black was unable to score again. Capt. Black was unable to score again.

Giants Swamp All-Nations.

The St. Louis (negro) Giants swamped the All-Nations in the second game of the series at Federal League Park yesterday, Oct. 4. The locals pounded both Lane and Wilkes hard. The same teams are scheduled to contest this afternoon.

Last Night's Fights.

Brooklyn — Gunboat Smith abashed Joe Cox, 10 rounds.

Reading, Pa.—E. O. Sullivan and Harry Baker, six-round draw.

South Bethlehem, Pa.—Patsy Cline bested Young Mahoney, 10 rounds.

Hughes Dugan stopped Battling Barker, six rounds.

Young Schweitzer bested Ed Edwards, six rounds.

Young O'Brien and Kid Burkett, four-round draw.

Memphis, Tenn.—Gus Christie, giving 15 pounds to Battling Levisky, held him to a draw and had rather the best of it.

Seibert Wins at Tennis.

When "Dutch" Seibert did his part to win the tennis match for McKinley Monday, he proved that he is a man of grit and reputation.

He also held his own when wearing white flannel on the tennis court. Although one of the smallest men on the grid team he can manage it most successfully from his position at quarterback and when seen on the tennis court he is just as successful.

One has advanced the theory that Seibert may play basketball this season.

VAUGHN VS. RUSSELL IN FIRST CHICAGO BATTLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Baseball enthusiasts crowded into South Side park today to witness the initial contest for the Chicago city championship for 1916 between the local teams of the American and National Leagues.

All games in the series will start at 8:15 p. m.

Manager Rowland of the Americans reserved definite announcement of his batting order until just before the game, but indicated that either Russell or Ciolek would be in the pitcher's box, with the chance in favor of the former.

On the other hand, Manager Joe Zinker of the Nationals said that Jim Vaughn would be his offering in the opening game, with either Williams or Kelly doing the receiving. Sohak was slated to catch for the Americans.

Cleveland Plays Loyola.

Loyola Academy and Cleveland High School meet this afternoon at 8:30 on the latter's campus to settle their differences in football. Although Loyola was defeated last Saturday by a score of 7-0, they have strengthened their team so that they hope to give the South Siders a good, strong fight.

Cleveland, who has just lost one of their half-backs, is just as confident of winning the game, so it is expected that an interesting game will result.

MOORE'S WORK FEATURES PRINCETON GRID PRACTICE

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 4.—Rush met his charges through the entire routine of a football workout this afternoon. Beginning with a run around the field, the squads were separated into linemen, ends, back field candidates, each coach assuming charge of a group.

Linemen charging in unison came to form quite a bit of attention from the crowd. In which the backs catching the kicks were held by having interference formed for them.

Bill Moore's work, both in carrying the ball and acting as interference, was of a high order. Moore, in fact, proved the individual star of the afternoon.

THIS GOLFER WINS CUP WITH A 165-YARD PUTT

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—What is said here to be the first time in golf history when a player won a match by making the final hole in one is recorded in the contest for the W. J. Jackson trophy at Beverly Country Club yesterday.

Playing in the final, Harry R. Shollenberger and William F. Nelson came to the 16th tee all square. The hole 163 yards, and Shollenberger's machine shot rolled up to the hole and retraced the pin. When the pin was lifted the ball fell in. Nelson held his suit for a while, but it did him no good.

TO LOOK AT THE CARPENTER YOU'D THINK HE WAS DIRECTING THE ARMIES OF EUROPE—BY GOLDBERG.

Juvenile Philanthropy

THE backyard of a house in a Massachusetts town is overlooked by the windows of an orphan asylum. In this back yard stood a barrel of apples which were disappearing at a rapid rate. The woman of the house, a widow and a knowing mother, summoned her 8-year-old son to make inquiry touching the curious disappearance of the fruit. "Yes, mother, I've eaten the apples," he confessed, "but I really had to do it." "Had to do it?" "Yes, mother; the orphans wanted so many cores."

Coming Down the Avenue.

THE messes were making their annual round of the juvenile people very much vexed because she didn't catch them. She felt that a nice little vacation was being denied her. One day she came rushing into the school-room, clapping her hands with delight. "Oh, Miss Nichols! They're coming down the avenue." "Who?" asked her teacher, hurrying to the window and looking for—she knew not what. "The messes! Bessy Tubbs, right at the corner, has just got them and now it'll be my turn next!"

Poets are born, not made.

So is the fellow with executive ability, the money maker, the Carusos, the diplomat, the good lawyers, the good doctors, the guy who gets by without extra effort and the chap who never lets anything worry him.

No Recommendation.

AS usual Mrs. Merton enlivened the dinner table conversation with an account of the new servant. "I don't know much about her yet," she said, "but she is good-natured and harmless, at any rate." "How did you find that out?" asked Mr. Merton. "By her singing. She is always singing at her work." Mr. Merton slapped viciously at the back of his neck. "That's no sign," he said. "A meek little does that."

Opportunity's Whims.

OPPORTUNITY knocks at every man's door. "Too often, however, it is the opportunity to open a peanut stand where we would rather start a bank."

With Due Allowances

IT happened in a little town in Ohio. A visiting Easterner stood on the veranda of a little hotel there, watching the sun go down in a splendor of purple and gold. "By George!" he exclaimed to an impressive native lounging against a post. "That's a gorgeous sunset, isn't it?" The native slanted his head a little and looked critically at the glowing west.

"Not bad," he drawled. "Not bad for a little place like Hoopville."

Queerly Put.

I REALLY don't believe," said Gladys coyly, "that you particularly wanted to hear me sing." "Oh, indeed," her admirer protested. "I had never heard you."

Joyous Tidings.

CHARLEY, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "I have good news." "What is it?"

"The bank sent me word that my account is overdrawn. I looked in the synonym book and found that 'overdrawn' is the same as 'exaggerated'."

Why He Was Happy.

BILL: Why feeling so happy? "I was just down to the pond and saw a frog croaking." "Why glad that make you happy?" "I'm glad it was the frog that croaked and not me."—Yonkers Statesman.

Resourceful Protector

A SOUTHERN lady who had met with financial reverses recently moved to the country in order to economize. She engaged a little colored boy in the neighborhood to assist her at odd times about the house. Sam was so much pleased with his employment that he was anxious to become a permanent member of the little household.

"Mia Alice," he began one day, "don't you all ever get skinned in this big house, just by yourself?" "Why, yes, Sam," the lady admitted. "It is too big at times. I have thought of having someone about when my husband has to go away."

"Well," ventured Sam again, "I just thought you might like to know that I'm a candidate for de position ob protector in case you should decide to employ someone."

Sam was puzzled for a moment, but presently he had an inspiration.

"Well, Mia Alice," he said proudly, "dash's one thing dat I could do in case you was visited by unwelcome intruders: I could light de lantern and show you all which way to run!"—The Youth's Companion.

Back to Her Tender Years.

BARNER: This beef is very tough. It is evidently from an old cow. "Mrs. Haskins! Let me tell you, sir, that the tenderest beef I ever ate was from a cow 15 or 20 years old." "Barnard: That's easily explained. The cow was so old she was childish."

HOCUS: Does your wife ever have any spasms of economy? Fokus—Well, she's always talking about how much carfare we could save if we only had an automobile.

Temperament

IN a woman temperament is the voice of irritability; she is allowed to show; in a man it represents the proportion of the feminine in his construction. Temperament is always feminine. When a married woman throws plates at her husband, and tears up the carpet, she has within her the makings of a great artist; all she needs are technique, a press agent and a divorce; hitherto her energies have been misdirected.

Temperament is the difference between character and genius; that is, it marks the point where character leaves off and genius begins. When there is enough temperament, and it is properly directed, genius results; when not, you obtain board at a lunatic asylum. Temperament is the Nth power of selfishness, the supreme anarchist of the mind. When you begin to feel bombs going off inside of you, and they are counting the dead and you see a kind-faced posterity looming in the distance, then prepare for every emergency; send for an alienist and a reporter. For when the next bulletin is megaphoned, you may be either a member or the father superior of a new cult.
